Vance arrives in Jerusalem for talks

JERUSALEM (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, carrying word of possible Palestinian concessions, arrived in Israel today for what could be the climax of his current Middle East peace mission.

Vance faced close questioning by Prime Minister Menahem Begin and other Israeli leaders on whether the United States remains committed not to negotiate with Yasir Arafat's Palestinian Liberation Organization — PLO.

Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan welcomed Vance at planeside upon his arrival from Saudi Arabia and said, "Whenever you accept our views, we will be in full agreement with you."

Dayan was speaking in a light vein, but his comment foreshadowed difficulties in Vance's talks here.

At a news conference in Taif, Saudi Arabia, before flying here, Vance confirmed that he has had indirect contacts with the PLO through various Arab intermediaries.

"We have had no direct contact with the PLO," he said, adding: "We are informed by the various Arab parties as to the positions of the PLO and have been so informed as we proceeded through my visit." Vance has been in the Middle East for nine days.

The PLO has so far refused to accept United Nations resolutions laying the groundwork for a peaceful settlement of the Arab+Israeli conflict, in part because these recognize Israel's right to exist and speak of the Palestinian quest for a homeland only as a "refugee problem." The PLO charter also calls for replacement of the Jewish state by a secular Palestine.

In a "memorandum of agreement" between the United States and Israel in 1975, former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger pledged that Washington "will not recognize or negotiate with the PLO as long as the PLO does not recognize Israel's right to exist and does not accept Security Council Resolutions 242 and 338."

Resolution 242 calls for Israeli withdrawal from occupied territories, resolution of the "refugee problem" and recognition of the right of every Mideast state to live in secure borders, and Resolution 338 set up the Geneva peace conference.

Vance told reporters he had heard rumors that the PLO may be considering a change of position in regard to Resolution 242.

"But," he said, "I have seen nothing concrete yet."

If the PLO accepted the resolution, adopted after the 1967 war, the United States would not insist that the PLO charter also be revised, Vance said.

"If the PLO were to accept 242 they would be accepting the principle that they recognized the right of Israel to exist in a state of peace within secure and recognized boundaries," he said. "That, in my judgment, would revoke the covenant."

But in Israel, a high-ranking Israeli politician said a Palestinian willingness to recognize Israel's right to exist would not change the Jewish state's stand against negotiating with the PLO.

Moshe Arens, a senior official of the ruling Likud bloc, told the Israeli armed forces radio today that Israel's position is clear: "We are not ready to go to the Geneva peace conference with the participation of the PLO."

Israeli newspapers predicted tough talks between Vance and Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin, who reiterated Monday that Israel would not negotiate with an "organization of genocidists."

Begin's remarks came before President Carter and other U.S. officials disclosed the apparent new Palestinian overture and a possible shift in American policy to support PLO participation in peace talks.

The conservative Israeli daily newspaper Maariv warned in an editorial today that the United States, by recognizing the PLO, would lose its credibility in Israeli eyes.

Corrections director will join local firm

State Corrections Director Ewing B. Gourley will resign that post Sept. 1 to become vice president of Health Projects Inc., 214 N. Scott St.

Gourley made the announcement Monday in Jefferson City.

Health Projects, Inc., is a nursing home management firm that owns or manages seven nursing homes in Missouri. The homes are located in Birch Tree, Piedmont, Jackson, Farmington, Campbell, Centralia and Salem.

Don Bedell, 701 Mimosa Drive, president of the firm, was in Jefferson City today meeting with Gourley.

Gourley, 34, has headed the state's correctional system since April,, taking that job from Edward Haynes after serving for three years as director of the Division of Family Services. Both posts are under the state Department of Social Services.

The resignation will leave the division without a director at a time when lawmakers will be considering appropriating $37 million for a medium security prison in the St. Louis area and renovations at the state's other prison facilities.

Work on the funding plan, intended to ease overcrowding, will begin Wednesday when the Legislature opens a special session.

Along with Social Services Director James Walsh, Gourley has been working on site selection for the new prison since he took over as corrections director.

Man found hanged in Miss Co jail cell

CHARLESTON— An Indianapolis man, being held for trial in Mississippi County Circuit Court, was found dead in his cell at the county jail about 7:15 a.m. today during a cell check before breakfast by the jailer, T. E. Simmons.

George Thomas Dillard, 34, was reportedly found hanging by his neck from a shower door partition in his cell. Mississippi County Coroner Elgin McMikle said Dillard apparently tore sheets from his cot into strips, which he looped around his neck and the partition and slid or jumped from the second level cot.

Dillard, who was being held for trial on two charges of felonious assault and armed robebery, was alone in the cell and had been observed by the jailer talking with other prisoners in the cellblock about 10:45 p.m. Monday.

McMikele said he has ruled the death a suicide and indicated a formal inquest will be held sometime next week when Prosecuting Attorney Edward C. Graham returns from vacation.

McMikle said no note was found in the cell.

Dillard faced trial on the robbery charge, filed in connection with a robbery attempt at Bruenderman's Package Liquor & Grocery Store at Charleston.

Following his appearance on that charge in Magistrate Court, Dillard attempted to escape from custody by throwing a germicidal toilet bowl cleaner containing an acid solution on two sheriff's deputies, Robert Smith and Dennis Turley.

Sheriff Norris Grissom was out of town this morning and details on the hanging were not available from his office.

The body was taken to Sparks Funeral Home, where arrangements are incomplete.

Man found murdered on I-55

NEW MADRID -- The body of a 33-year-old Paducah, Ky., man, Joseph Kelly Pate, who had been shot once in the head in an apparent homicide, was discovered about 8:15 p.m. Monday in his pickup truck, parked on the northbound shoulder of Interstate 55 two and a half miles south of town.

Pate was a tugboat captain for a Paducah towing company. His body was found by his wife, Mary Frances Pate, who told officers Pate had left Blytheville, Ark., about noon to return to Paducah.

A sheriff's deputy said this morning it appeared that robbery was the motive in the slaying. Pate's wallet containing approximately $13, personal papers and a checkbook were missing.

No suspects have been turned up and no physical clues or evicence had been found early this morning, the deputy said, except for reports that the truck had been observed at the scene about 3:30 p.m. Monday by passing motorists.

New Madrid County Corner Gene Clayton said Pate had been dead about five hours from a gunshot would inflicted behind the right ear. The type and size of the gun have not been established, Clayton said, and x-rays of the victim's head were to be made today to determine if the fatal bullet exited or it it can be removed.

According to Clayton, Mrs. Pate said the couple had been visiting her relatives in Blytheville and she had planned to remain for a longer visit. About 6 p.m., when she received a phone call from the towing company advising that her husband had not shown up for work, she left for Paducah in her car, accompanied by another woman and the woman's baby.

Mrs. Pate spotted her husband's truck, parked on the shoulder with the hood raised, and then found his body lying across the seat with his head toward the passenger side.

12 injured in area accidents

Twelve persons were injured, three seriously, in five area traffic accidents Monday, according to the highway patrol.

A Viburnum man and his wife were seriously injured in a motorcycle accident at 1:10 p.m. Monday on Highway 21, five miles north of Belleview.

Taken to Arcadia Valley Hospital at Pilot Knob were Robert Samule Bullock, 34, driver of the southbound motorcycle, and his wife, Gloria Jean Bullock, age unavailable, who was riding on the back of the vehicle.

The patrol said the rear tire on the motorcycle blew out, causing Bullock to lose control. Both victims were thrown from the cycle.

A two-car accident at 9:10 a.m. Monday, one mile east of Wyatt on Highway 60, resulted in serious injuries to Burmia Barker, 47, of Racine, Wis., and moderate injuries to Mamie Hill, 43, of Racine, passengers in a car driven by George Byars, 48, of Racine. Also receiving moderate injuries were Vera Ruth Stockdale, 64, and B.E. Rainwater, 69, of Big Sandy, Tenn., passengers in the second vehicle which was driven by Clell Stanley Stockdale, 65, of Big Sandy.

The accident occurred when Byars made a sudden left turn as the Stockdale car was attempting to pass. The Stockdale car struck the Byars car in the left side. Both vehicles were eastbound.

The injury victims were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Byars was cited for failure to signal.

A one-car accident at 11:45 p.m. Monday, on a gravel road one and half miles south of Wardell, resulted in minor injuries to the driver, Ruby Radosh, 46, of Caruthersville, and a passenger, Allen Thornton, 14, of Caruthersville, who were taken to Pemiscot Memorial Medical Center at Hayti.

The southbound Radosh car was reportedly forced off the road by another vehicle, and struck a utility pole.

Three persons received minor injuries at 8:15 a.m. Monday, on Route B seven miles west of Portageville, in a one-car accident.

Mrs. Betty Jo Alberson, 30, driver of a northbound car, and her children, Lannie J., 3, and Richard, 1, of Wardell, were taken to Pemiscot Medical Center.

The patrol said Mrs. Alberson's car ran off the right side of the road, struck a culvert and overturned.

A two-vehicle accident at 7:05 p.m. Monday on Highway 67 at the Greenville north city limits brought minor injuries to David R. Miller, 22, of Arnold, a passenger in a northbound jeep, driven by Gary Miller, 23, of Arnold, Miller sought his own medical treatment.

The accident occurred as truck tractor, driven north by Edsel Hogge, Jr., 53, of Wheaton, Ill., was passing the Miller vehicle. Miller lost control of the jeep when it struck water on the highway, slid across the center line and was struck broadside by the truck.

Ferrell elected to post in state association

BENTON -- Scott County Sheriff William F. "Bill" Ferrell was elected third vice president of the organization, Missouri Sheriffs Association at a weekend meeting of the organization held at Branson.

When contacted Monday, Ferrell said that in addition to his election, he was happy to say that the Bootheel counties led the attendance with 100 per cent representation at the association's meeting.

Ferrell also said Mississippi County Sheriff Norris Grissom and he had been appointed to the legislative committee of the association, along with Sheriff Wyman Taysinger of Cole County, chairman of the committee, and Sheriff Benjamin Goins of St. Louis, vice chairman.

A package of bills sought by the Missouri Sheriffs Association will be presented to the Missouri Legislature sometime late in September, Ferrell said. Some of the bills to be presented, he added, will seek deputy training, an increase in deputies salaries and a mandatory statewide indentification program.

Ferrell said that at the present time all of the Bootheel counties are already participating in the ownership identification program.

Korea scandal may include some senators

CHICAGO (AP) — Two weeks after saying that no senator had taken cash payments or gifts from South Korean lobbyists, Sen. Adlai Stevenson III says the Senate Ethics Committee now is looking for a special counsel to head its investigation into the growing scandal.

The Illinois Democrat, chairman of the Ethics Committee, told reporters at the American Bar Association convention here on Monday that his panel probably will appoint a special counsel "within the next week or two."

"We are determined to get to the bottom of this matter," Stevenson said.

Two days ago, the Senate panel received information from the Justice Department on Korean gift-giving.

Tax incentives rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal today rejected the Senate Finance Committee arguments that America's energy companies need more federal tax incentives to develop new reserves.

In drafting President Carter's national energy plan, Blumenthal told the committee, "We could have relied entirely on market incentives coupled with total deregulation of oil and natural gas prices."

But Blumenthal said relying on market incentives and deregulation would have created enormous distortion in the nation's economy and unjust windfall profits for the energy companies.

Parade route announced

The route for the Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo parade Thursday evening has been announced.

The parade will begin at 5:30 p.m. at Kingsway Mall and proceed north on South Kingshighway to South Street, it will then travel west on South to New Madrid Street, north on New Madrid to Front Street, where it will turn east around American Legion Park to Kingshighway and then south back to Malone Avenue. The parade will then proceed east on Malone Avenue to Midtowner Village Shopping Center.

Some of the parade units will proceed from the shopping center to the rodeo grounds for the grand entry.

Parade entries will line up at 5 p.m. Those wanting to enter the parade should contact Larry Lunn at telephone number 471-6737 or Rob Henley at 471-5101.

Aviation Day is Saturday

Members of the Cape Girardeau Parachute Club will jump all day. A National Guard helicopter will be on display, as will home-built and experimental aircraft

Vernon Willingham will show off his aerobactic homebuilt plane.

Also featured will be an agriculture flying salute to farmers and airplane rides for the public.

Proceeds from the show will be used to provide airport improvements.

Man held for embezzling

BENTON -- The Scott County Sheriff's Department has reported the arrest Monday of Roy E. Olds Jr. of Muskegon, Mich., for investigation of a Michigan warrant on charges of embezzling over $100.

Olds is being held in Scott County jail for Michigan authorities.

The arrest at 5 p.m., resulted when Scott County Deputy Sheriff Jerry Bledsoe spotted a car driven by Olds while looking for a car with stolen license plates and asked for a license check by radio.

After checking the license plates, it was found that the car had been reported stolen in Michigan. Bledsoe then stopped the car about one and a half miles south of Highway 91 on a gravel road south of Oran.

Ferrell elected to post in state association

BENTON -- Scott County Sheriff William F. "Bill" Ferrell was elected third vice president of the organization, Missouri Sheriffs Association at a weekend meeting of the organization held at Branson.

When contacted Monday, Ferrell said that in addition to his election, he was happy to say that the Bootheel counties led the attendance with 100 per cent representation at the association's meeting.

Ferrell also said Mississippi County Sheriff Norris Grissom and he had been appointed to the legislative committee of the association, along with Sheriff Wyman Raysinger of Cole County, chairman of the committee, and Sheriff Benjamin Goins of St. Louis, vice chairman.

A package of bills sought by the Missouri Sheriffs Association will be presented to the Missouri Legislature sometime late in September, Ferrell said. Some of the bills to be presented, he added, will seek deputy training, an increase in deputies salaries and a mandatory statewide indentification program.

Ferrell said that at the present time all of the Bootheel counties are already participating in the ownership identification program.

Korea scandal may include some senators

CHICAGO (AP) — Two weeks after saying that no senator had taken cash payments or gifts from South Korean lobbyists, Sen. Adlai Stevenson III says the Senate Ethics Committee now is looking for a special counsel to head its investigation into the growing scandal.

The Illinois Democrat, chairman of the Ethics Committee, told reporters at the American Bar Association convention here on Monday that his panel probably will appoint a special counsel "within the next week or two."

"We are determined to get to the bottom of this matter," Stevenson said.

Two days ago, the Senate panel received information from the Justice Department on Korean gift-giving.

After checking the license plates, it was found that the car had been reported stolen in Michigan. Bledsoe then stopped the car about one and a half miles south of Highway 91 on a gravel road south of Oran.

EDUCATION ABOUT BUSINESS

College students continue to regard big business with a jaundiced eye, if the results of a survey on one campus can be considered representative.

In a survey of more than 500 undergraduates at Kent State University recently, large companies were ranked lowest in trust by 50 per cent of the students, out of 14 institutions listed.

The finding is fairly consistent with previous polls, says Edward C. Logelin, professor of business administration, who has conducted six of them in the past two years.

One of the major misconceptions about big business still held by students concerns average corporate profits. While a 4 to 5 per cent profit is the average for most companies, 25 per cent of the students surveyed believed that it was 6 to 10 per cent, and nearly one of every seven thought it was in excess of 30 per cent.

But it is the lack of trust in big business that bothers Logelin the most, and one of the reasons for it, he suggests, may be due to the "remoteness" of students from large firms. "Students are not familiar with businesses; they are a mystery."

Public education programs by business, especially in false impressions, he says. it cannot be done by advertising or sloganeering, however, because half of the students surveyed at Kent didn't place much trust in advertising, either.

"Business has got to start a dialogue on the campus," says Logelin. This approach is vital because an "antibusiness attitude" has been entrenched on campuses for more than 50 years, and it has steadily increased because business had done little to counter it.

An important target within the campus community should be the colleges of education. Their majors, who will teach the next generation of students, seem to have the worst misconceptions of all, says Logelin.

Some companies are providing economics couses for high school teachers, but more needs to be done by business to increase public understanding of the free enterprise system, he says.

"If the public has a misunderstanding, it's not the public's fault."

PRIVILEGED PARKERS

No matter what else you do to him, don't try to make a congressman pay to park his car on Capitol Hill.

That seems to be the lesson learned the other day by Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo.

Hart, forgetting that rank has its privileges, proposed that henceforth all House members, senators, staff assistants and newsmen who share 8,563 free parking spaces near the Capitol should pay a fee ranging from $10 to $50 a month.

As expected, the Senate promptly tabled the motion by a vote of 66 to 28, which means it may be reconsidered in the 21st century or when hell freezes over, whichever comes first.

Hart's idea made sense, of course. Why should congressmen park free? Why should congressional aides and newsmen park free? Why don't they ride the subway? Or take a taxi? Or pay a parking fee like other folks?

Why, in fact, should anyone who works in a polluted, congested city like Washington be given an inducement to bring his car to work?

TO BAN OR NOT TO BAN?

Since it appears as if the State Legislature favors the continued observance of the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit for several more years, it's interesting to note that more and more states are passing or planning laws banning the use of anti-radar devices by motorists.

In fact, several court cases currently are being fought over the issue. We're not talking about the use of CB's to warn your "Good Buddy" of "Smokey's" whereabouts. We're referring to the use of little electronic gadgets that enable speeders to spot radar before it spots them, thus giving them time to slow down.

Is it an example of the law being outdated by technology? Well, according to the New York Times, it's the mentality of the law that is outdated. Instead of trying to get the devices outlawed, the police should be encouraging truckers and all other speeders to buy them.

Then the police could simply station radar at frequent intervals along the highway and speeders would be slowing down constantly. Since the objective is less speeding and not more tickets, radar stations wouldn't have to be manned at all times, thus freeing the highway patrol for other duties.

To ban or not to ban...that's the question? But what will they think of next? XXX

SPELLING "BEES" COULD HELP

One of the major faults many people find with modern education is that too many students, graduates and even teachers, have never learned how to spell.

Now it's being suggested that educators adopt an old plan that was not only educational but also entertaining at times.

It is what once was known as the "Spelling Bee", with members of a class or a room lined up, and words given out for them to spell in the order in which they stood until a word was misspelled, then the failing one sat down. The last one to spell a word correctly was the winner.

They're having them at Monroe Manor. They probably would be a worthwhile feature in the school. Participants, even though they were "spelled down", would learn considerable from the correct spelling of the others.

ONE EDICT THAT WAS NEEDED

There are hundreds, possibly thousands, of laws and regulations that should never be, but one of the most highly publicized is not in that category.

It is the regulation that says all children must be immunized against measles, diphtheria, etc., or will be dismissed from school.

Some parents will object, on the theory they should have the right to immunize or not to immunize their own children.

They're wrong.

They might be right if it was a matter of their own children only. But that is not the case, because failure to immunize their own children endangers others outside their family when it comes to the communicable diseases to which the regulation applies.

None of us has the moral or legal right to endanger the health or life of others.

Hopefully, our school and health officials here and elsewhere will make certain this new rule is strictly enforced.

Remember the old saying: "Your rights end where my nose begins"? It applies here.

TOO VALUABLE TO BE THROWN AWAY

By Harry Ward Richardson

In spite of the bleak prognosis, it is wrong to expect the big cities to come tumbling down. Non-local property income and transfer payments buffer the fall. Per capita incomes remain relatively high and unemployment rates are below the national average in many of the older, if not the newer cities. The fiscal implications of metropolitan decline are probably more serious; solutions are not beyond the imagination of man, though perhaps beyond the pale of political feasibility. I remain optimistic. The site advantages of the big cities, the quality of their infrastructure, the adaptability and resilience of their populations and their contribution to civilization are too valuable to be thrown away. It is much too soon to accept Engels' prediction that "the great towns will perish."

"A case study in how to succeed in the weapons business without even flying" is how Sen. William Proxmire(D-Wis.) describes the Air Force's $2.9 billion cruise missile program.

The Wisconsin Democrat recently questioned the Air Force's claims of success for the program, noting a series of flight test crashes and navigation mishaps. The fifth and sixth flight tests of the air-launched missle in 1976 ended in crashes and the seventh was postponed, the senator said. Three navigation guidance tests in 1976 were failures and a fourth was cancelled, Sen. Proxmire claimed.

"The taxpayer . . . may wonder whetar, on the basis of such a flight test 'successes,' the $2.9-billion cruise missile program is being well-managed," he said.

WINDOW TO TAX RATES

Under the open window law, local governments must now give public notice and hold a hearing before they finalize their property tax rates. Taxpayers should watch for published notices and ascertain whether the proposed tax rates are correct.

The notices must be published at least seven days before the hearing. They are required to contain the information needed to determine the correctness of proposed rates. That includes the current year's assessed valuation, the amount of property tax revenue shown by the budget to be needed and the rate proposed to produce that amount.

Monitoring of these notices by citizens can help prevent tax rates that are unnecessarily high.

Higher than necessary tax rates often occur because many local governments adopt budgets early in the calendar year, before the assessed valuations on which they will compute their tax rates have been established .At that time, using an estimate of assessed valuation, they compute a tentative tax rate.

Later, when their assessed valuation becomes known, they are required to recompute the tax rate. They should substitute the current year's valuation for the earlier estimate of valuation, so that their tax rate will produce no more or no less revenue than their budget requires.

When local governments fail to adjust tax rates to compensate for increased assessments, they reap windfalls at the expense of taxpayers.

School districts are required to finalize tax rates by July 15 and counties and many other local governments by September 20. As a practical matter, many will finalize their tax rates earlier.

Survey studies have shown that many millions in unnecessary property taxes can be prevented through public monitoring of the tax rate-setting process in Missouri.

Direct federal outlays for regulating business are expected to reach $3.5 billion in fiscal 1977, the federal budget year ending September 30. That would be a 21 per cent increase from the $2.9 billion in fiscal 1976, one source told Industry Week. By the end of fiscal 1978, federal regulatory expenditures are expected to approach $3.8 billion.

ALCOHOL COULD FILL FUEL NEEDS

By JACK ANDERSON and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON— A grim President Carter told the American people on April 18 that they should brace for the equivalent of war to overcome the energy shortage. He called for smaller cars, better insulation, simpler lifestyles.

Last week, the Senate Energy Committee responded dramatically by outlawing automobiles that get less than 16 miles per gallon, beginning with the 1980 models.

Some energy experts have told us Americans may not have to change their way of life. It may not be necessary for them to junk their big cars, give up their weekend drives to the beach and move back into the city from the outlying communities.

Before the nation runs out of gas, say these experts, much of the fuel that is needed can be distilled from agricultural surpluses, timber waste, municipal garbage, wastepaper and caol.

These plentiful products can be converted into alcohol fuels, which can be blended into gasoline without even changing the entines. Infact, with slight modifications, automobile engines can e adjusted to run entirely on alcohol.

Already, Brazil and Germany have made commitments to start the switch to alcohol fuels. Brazil is seriously considering a plan to draw 75 per cent of its liquid fuel from alcohol by the year 2000.

Neither the idea nor the technology is new. European producers have sold alcohol blended with gasoline for decades. In the 1930s, Chrysler Motors modified some cars slightly to accommodate alcohol fuels and shipped them to oil-short New Zeland.

International Harvester used to advertise in the Philippines that its motor trucks were "powered with engines especially designed to burn alcohol." Today, many racecar drivers prefer alcohol fuels to gasoline.

We have spent several weeks investigating the dramatic possibility that alcohol could end our immediate dependence upon overseas oil. Alcohol fuels don't have to be pumped out of foreign fields but can be produced right here in the United States. This would stimulate the U.S. economy and reduce the massive flow of dollars to the oil potentates.

For the amount it will cost to transport Middle East oil across the ocean and store it in our strategic reserves, experts insist, the government could build dozens of alcohol fuel plants throughout the nation.

These plants are far cheaper to construct than gasoline refineries. They can also utilize waste products, thus producing vital fuel and cleaning up America at the same time. Experts told us, for example, that most of the garbage and trash New York City now dumps into the ocean could be transformed into alcohol fuels. The benefit to the beaches, which are now awash with apollution, would be worth the cost of the project, one authority suggested.

Speaking of pollution, the use of alochol fuels would reduce the noxious exhaust fumes that now choke our cities. Comprehensive studies by Volkswagen, General Motors and even Exxon indicate that pure alcohol fuels cut down dramatically on auto pollution.

Yet the Carter administration, despite the high stakes involved, has failed to pay much attention to alcohol fuels. The 165-page National Energy Program devotes only a single sentence to the alcohol potential.

The Energy Research and Development Administration has devoted a few dollars to alcohol fuel research. The experiments have yielded promising results but, strangely, have been virtually ignored by higher-ups.

The all-powerful oil industry, of course, opposes developing rival alcohol fuels. This not only would threaten oil profits but could break the industry's monopoly, A city government could produce fuel from its garbage, a timber state from its wastewood, a farm state from its surplus grain. Then the big oil companies might be left with a lot of unused crude on their hands.

The oil operators, for example, have quietly tried to block the state of Nebraska from producing and marketing a 10 per cent blend of grain alcohol and gasoline. This product, known by the nickname "gas-o-hol," could be used in existing engines.

Suddenly, Nebraska congressmen began receiving quiet calls from representatives of the Nebraska Petroleum Marketers, urging them to oppose the gas-o-hol project. They coolly predicted that Nebraska's Gov. James Exon would withdraw his previous support of the project.

The governor denied he was opposed to gas-o-hol, but he called for further study. This was interpreted inside the statehouse as a political stall. Disillusioned legislators are convinced he caved in to oil pressure, a charge he vigorously denies.

Alcohol blends would cost a few cents per gallon more than gasoline, at the current prices. But insiders expect that gas prices not only will catch up but surpass what it would cost to produce alcohol fuels.

The benefits in reducing pollution, improving the economy and reducing the dependence on oil imports should also be cranked into the economics. Favorable tax incentives could help make alcohol fuels competitive.

CLEAN BOMB FOR SALE

"Knock, Knock. How do you do, sir. Could I interest you in our latest enhanced neutron bomb?"

"What do I want with a neutron bomb?"

"This is the best thing to come along since the invention of synthetic potato chips. The neutron bomb is not really a bomb, but an artillery shell with a low-yield atomic capability."

"Thank you very much but I've got all the atomic weapons I need."

"Please don't shut the door until you've heard me out. The neutron bomb is a clean weapon."

"What does that mean?"

"It means, sir, that it kills people but it doesn't destroy property. You can fire one of these into acity or town and walk in the next day and find almost every building intact. Since this has just been developed, you would be the only one to own a clean bomb on your block. You would be the envy of everyone in your neighborhood."

I don't know. It sounds interesting but I've been spending so much money on weapons lately I'm not sure I could afford a clean bomb."

"Let me show you our catalog. Look at the size of the neutron bomb. You can put it in your station wagon, and fire it from any U-Haul. This is not a luxury item, but an absolute necessity. As a major power you can't do without it."

"That's what you told me about the B-1 bomber."

"Forget the B-1 bomber. Think of the environmental aspects of the neutron bomb. You don't have to worry about dirty fallout any more. You don't have to mess with a lot of rubble or deal with radiation for years. After you kill everyone you can walk into a town in 24 hours and it will be as clean as a whistle. Your troops can set up an officers' club and a USO in a matter of days."

"It does sound interesting, but isn't there some arms limitation about a clean bomb?"

"Absolutely not. There is nothing in the SALT agreement about owning a neutron bomb. This is not a strategic weapon such as a missile. It is nothing more than an artillery shell that can be used by your ground forces in the same manner as a flame thrower or a tank."

"Does the other side have a neutron bomb?"

"They do not. That's what makes it such an appealing weapon. We're the only ones manufacturing them and we have the patent on it. If you buy it we assure you that you will be ahead in the arms race."

"There is only one problem. If I have a clean bomb and the other side doesn't, what would prevent them from using a dirty bomb to get even with me?"

"That would be against the rules of nuclear warfare. After all if you're not destroying their property why should they get mad enough to use a dirty bomb?" "You make it sound so simple. But there must be a catch in it somewhere. If I was the other side and I didn't have a clean bomb, I'd use everything I had, just to get even."

"But that would be all-out war. The beauty of the clean bomb is that the war could be limited to just armed combatants. You can pinpoint a neutron bomb to just hit the target area. Think of all the civilian lives you could save.

"How much is it?"

"It comes to only a few cents a day for every man, woman, and child in the United States. One small war and it will pay for itself."

"All right. I'll buy it. But if I use it, how can I be sure that the other side won't throw a dirty bomb at me?"

"We guarantee it. If you use a clean bomb and the other side retaliates with a dirty one, we'll give you your money back with no question asked."

Now it's being suggested that educators adopt an old plan that was not only educational but also entertaining at times.

It is what once was known as the "Spelling Bee", with members of a class or a room lined up, and words given out for them to spell in the order in which they stood until a word was misspelled, then the failing one sat down. The last one to spell a word correctly was the winner.

They're having them at Monroe Manor. They probably would be a worthwhile feature in the school. Participants, even though they were "spelled down", would learn considerable from the correct spelling of the others.

ONE EDICT THAT WAS NEEDED

There are hundreds, possibly thousands, of laws and regulations that should never be, but one of the most highly publicized is not in that category.

It is the regulation that says all children must be immunized against measles, diphtheria, etc., or will be dismissed from school.

Some parents will object, on the theory they should have the right to immunize or not to immunize their own children.

They're wrong.

They might be right if it was a matter of their own children only. But that is not the case, because failure to immunize their own children endangers others outside their family when it comes to the communicable diseases to which the regulation applies.

None of us has the moral or legal right to endanger the health or life of others.

Hopefully, our school and health officials here and elsewhere will make certain this new rule is strictly enforced.

Remember the old saying: "Your rights end where my nose begins"? It applies here.

TOO VALUABLE TO BE THROWN AWAY

By Harry Ward Richardson

In spite of the bleak prognosis, it is wrong to expect the big cities to come tumbling down. Non-local property income and transfer payments buffer the fall. Per capita incomes remain relatively high and unemployment rates are below the national average in many of the older, if not the newer cities. The fiscal implications of metropolitan decline are probably more serious; solutions are not beyond the imagination of man, though perhaps beyond the pale of political feasibility. I remain optimistic. The site advantages of the big cities, the quality of their infrastructure, the adaptability and resilience of their populations and their contribution to civilization are too valuable to be thrown away. It is much too soon to accept Engels' prediction that "the great towns will perish."

HIGH COST OF WEAPONRY

"A case study in how to succeed in the weapons business without even flying" is how Sen. William Proxmire(D-Wis.) describes the Air Force's $2.9 billion cruise missile program.

The Wisconsin Democrat recently questioned the Air Force's claims of success for the program, noting a series of flight test crashes and navigation mishaps. The fifth and sixth flight tests of the air-launched missle in 1976 ended in crashes and the seventh was postponed, the senator said. Three navigation guidance tests in 1976 were failures and a fourth was cancelled, Sen. Proxmire claimed.

"The taxpayer . . . may wonder wheter, on the basis of such a flight test 'successes,' the $2.9-billion cruise missile program is being well-managed," he said.

IT SOUNDS GOOD TO MOST AMERICANS

At least one or more of the nationally renowned newspaper columnist commentators have been lamenting the fact that President Carter is not doing what the labor bosses want him to do, nor is he doing what Big Business special interests would prefer.

In other words, President Carter isn't being "cozy" with either group.

All of which sounds encouraging to the average American, who sees in this a hope that we at last have a President who will represent the people and not any special interest-labor or business.

WINDOW TO TAX RATES

Under the open window law, local governments must now give public notice and hold a hearing before they finalize their property tax rates. Taxpayers should watch for published notices and ascertain whether the proposed tax rates are correct.

The notices must be published at least seven days before the hearing. They are required to contain the information needed to determine the correctness of proposed rates. That includes the current year's assessed valuation, the amount of property tax revenue shown by the budget to be needed and the rate proposed to produce that amount.

Monitoring of these notices by citizens can help prevent tax rates that are unnecessarily high.

Higher than necessary tax rates often occur because many local governments adopt budgets early in the calendar year, before the assessed valuations on which they will compute their tax rates have been established .At that time, using an estimate of assessed valuation, they compute a tentative tax rate.

Later, when their assessed valuation becomes known, they are required to recompute the tax rate. They should substitute the current year's valuation for the earlier estimate of valuation, so that their tax rate will produce no more or no less revenue than their budget requires.

When local governments fail to adjust tax rates to compensate for increased assessments, they reap windfalls at the expense of taxpayers.

School districts are required to finalize tax rates by July 15 and counties and many other local governments by September 20. As a practical matter, many will finalize their tax rates earlier.

Survey studies have shown that many millions in unnecessary property taxes can be prevented through public monitoring of the tax rate-setting process in Missouri.

Even if President Carter continues his fight to cut down on Federal regulations, he faces a mountain that continues to grow. Proposed, codified and revised federal rules and standards last year consumed 57,027 pages of the Federal Register, the official chronical of regulations, and in just the first month of 1977, they filled 5,996 pages, reports Industry Week magazine.

Direct federal outlays for regulating business are expected to reach $3.5 billion in fiscal 1977, the federal budget year ending September 30. That would be a 21 per cent increase from the $2.9 billion in fiscal 1976, one source told Industry Week. By the end of fiscal 1978, federal regulatory expenditures are expected to approach $3.8 billion.

ALCOHOL COULD FILL FUEL NEEDS

By JACK ANDERSON and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON— A grim President Carter told the American people on April 18 that they should brace for the equivalent of war to overcome the energy shortage. He called for smaller cars, better insulation, simpler lifestyles.

Last week, the Senate Energy Committee responded dramatically by outlawing automobiles that get less than 16 miles per gallon, beginning with the 1980 models.

Some energy experts have told us Americans may not have to change their way of life. It may not be necessary for them to junk their big cars, give up their weekend drives to the beach and move back into the city from the outlying communities.

Before the nation runs out of gas, say these experts, much of the fuel that is needed can be distilled from agricultural surpluses, timber waste, municipal garbage, wastepaper and caol.

These plentiful products can be converted into alcohol fuels, which can be blended into gasoline without even changing the entines. Infact, with slight modifications, automobile engines can e adjusted to run entirely on alcohol.

Already, Brazil and Germany have made commitments to start the switch to alcohol fuels. Brazil is seriously considering a plan to draw 75 per cent of its liquid fuel from alcohol by the year 2000.

Neither the idea nor the technology is new. European producers have sold alcohol blended with gasoline for decades. In the 1930s, Chrysler Motors modified some cars slightly to accommodate alcohol fuels and shipped them to oil-short New Zeland.

International Harvester used to advertise in the Philippines that its motor trucks were "powered with engines especially designed to burn alcohol." Today, many racecar drivers prefer alcohol fuels to gasoline.

We have spent several weeks investigating the dramatic possibility that alcohol could end our immediate dependence upon overseas oil. Alcohol fuels don't have to be pumped out of foreign fields but can be produced right here in the United States. This would stimulate the U.S. economy and reduce the massive flow of dollars to the oil potentates.

For the amount it will cost to transport Middle East oil across the ocean and store it in our strategic reserves, experts insist, the government could build dozens of alcohol fuel plants throughout the nation.

These plants are far cheaper to construct than gasoline refineries. They can also utilize waste products, thus producing vital fuel and cleaning up America at the same time. Experts told us, for example, that most of the garbage and trash New York City now dumps into the ocean could be transformed into alcohol fuels. The benefit to the beaches, which are now awash with apollution, would be worth the cost of the project, one authority suggested.

Speaking of pollution, the use of alochol fuels would reduce the noxious exhaust fumes that now choke our cities. Comprehensive studies by Volkswagen, General Motors and even Exxon indicate that pure alcohol fuels cut down dramatically on auto pollution.

Yet the Carter administration, despite the high stakes involved, has failed to pay much attention to alcohol fuels. The 103-page National Energy Program devotes only a single sentence to the alcohol potential.

The Energy Research and Development Administration has devoted a few dollars to alcohol fuel research. The experiments have yielded promising results but, strangely, have been virtually ignored by higher-ups.

The all-powerful oil industry, of course, opposes developing rival alcohol fuels. This not only would threaten oil profits but could break the industry's monopoly, A city government could produce fuel from its garbage, a timber state from its wastewood, a farm state from its surplus grain. Then the big oil companies might be left with a lot of unused crude on their hands.

The oil operators, for example, have quietly tried to block the state of Nebraska from producing and marketing a 10 per cent blend of grain alcohol and gasoline. This product, known by the nickname "gas-o-hol," could be used in existing engines.

Suddenly, Nebraska congressmen began receiving quiet calls from representatives of the Nebraska Petroleum Marketers, urging them to oppose the gas-o-hol project. They coolly predicted that Nebraska's Gov. James Exon would withdraw his previous support of the project.

The governor denied he was opposed to gas-o-hol, but he called for further study. This was interpreted inside the statehouse as a political stall. Disillusioned legislators are convinced he caved in to oil pressure, a charge he vigorously denies.

Alcohol blends would cost a few cents per gallon more than gasoline, at the current prices. But insiders expect that gas prices not only will catch up but surpass what it would cost to produce alcohol fuels.

The benefits in reducing pollution, improving the economy and reducing the dependence on oil imports should also be cranked into the economics. Favorable tax incentives could help make alcohol fuels competitive.

CLEAN BOMB FOR SALE

"Knock, Knock. How do you do, sir. Could I interest you in our latest enhanced neutron bomb?"

"What do I want with a neutron bomb?"

"This is the best thing to come along since the invention of synthetic potato chips. The neutron bomb is not really a bomb, but an artillery shell with a low-yield atomic capability."

"Thank you very much but I've got all the atomic weapons I need."

"Please don't shut the door until you've heard me out. The neutron bomb is a clean weapon."

"What does that mean?"

"It means, sir, that it kills people but it doesn't destroy property. You can fire one of these into acity or town and walk in the next day and find almost every building intact. Since this has just been developed, you would be the only one to own a clean bomb on your block. You would be the envy of everyone in your neighborhood."

I don't know. It sounds interesting but I've been spending so much money on weapons lately I'm not sure I could afford a clean bomb."

"Let me show you our catalog. Look at the size of the neutron bomb. You can put it in your station wagon, and fire it from any U-Haul. This is not a luxury item, but an absolute necessity. As a major power you can't do without it."

"That's what you told me about the B-1 bomber."

"Forget the B-1 bomber. Think of the environmental aspects of the neutron bomb. You don't have to worry about dirty fallout any more. You don't have to mess with a lot of rubble or deal with radiation for years. After you kill everyone you can walk into a town in 24 hours and it will be as clean as a whistle. Your troops can set up an officers' club and a USO in a matter of days."

"It does sound interesting, but isn't there some arms limitation about a clean bomb?"

"Absolutely not. There is nothing in the SALT agreement about owning a neutron bomb. This is not a strategic weapon such as a missile. It is nothing more than an artillery shell that can be used by your ground forces in the same manner as a flame thrower or a tank."

"Does the other side have a neutron bomb?"

"They do not. That's what makes it such an appealing weapon. We're the only ones manufacturing them and we have the patent on it. If you buy it we assure you that you will be ahead in the arms race."

"There is only one problem. If I have a clean bomb and the other side doesn't, what would prevent them from using a dirty bomb to get even with me?"

"That would be against the rules of nuclear warfare. After all if you're not destroying their property why should they get mad enough to use a dirty bomb?" "You make it sound so simple. But there must be a catch in it somewhere. If I was the other side and I didn't have a clean bomb, I'd use everything I had, just to get even."

"But that would be all-out war. The beauty of the clean bomb is that the war could be limited to just armed combatants. You can pinpoint a neutron bomb to just hit the target area. Think of all the civilian lives you could save.

"How much is it?"

"It comes to only a few cents a day for every man, woman, and child in the United States. One small war and it will pay for itself."

"All right. I'll buy it. But if I use it, how can I be sure that the other side won't throw a dirty bomb at me?"

"We guarantee it. If you use a clean bomb and the other side retaliates with a dirty one, we'll give you your money back with no question asked."

Water project fight goes on

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — The dispute between President Carter and Congress over water projects may not be finished.

A presidential aide who declined to be identified left open the possibility that Carter might send Congress what is called a recision and deferral message, listing congressionally-approved spending he wants either to delay or delete from the budget.

Senators doubt energy plan

WASHINGTON (AP) —Energy Secretary James C. Schlesinger is conceding that members of the Senate Finance Committee are skeptical about President Carter's energy plan.

Schlesinger urged the panel on Monday to restore proposed gasoline taxes to energy legislation passed last week by the House, where the administration suffered a setback.

Soviet growth slowing down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two members of Congress say they are surprised by a CIA report concluding there may be a slowing of the Soviet Union's economic growth rate in the next decade.

Rep. Richard Bolling, D+Mo., and Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said the CIA finding is of profound significance to Soviet leaders who may be forced to decide whether to continue high levels of military spending.

Parliament debating strike

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — The Canadian Parliament was meeting today to consider emergency legislation imposing a settlement in Canada's crippling, three-day-old air traffic controllers strike. The 2,200 controllers are demanding a 12.6 per cent pay increase. The proposed legislation would impose an 8 per cent hike.

Arkansas gets more funds

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas has about $23 million more than it expected for construction projects.

It appears that a number of projects approved by the legislature last March will now be funded instead of waiting until next year, as was expected.

It also appears that several athletic and recreational facilities construction projects approved for state universities will also have funds available.

The $23 million in unexpected revenue comes from state tax collections that are surpassing forecasts.

The $23 million is made up of $9.3 million turned back from state agencies and institutions, $1.9 million left over from the last fiscal year, $8.4 million from a reserve fund created by the 1975 General Assembly and more than $3.7 million from an unused construction program.

Projects that now appear likely to be funded include $5.75 million for a health and physical education building at the University of Arkansas at Pine Bluff; $4.6 million for a business administration classroom building at the University of Arkansas at Little Rock; $8 million for a health and physical education building at the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville; $3.5 million for a student union at the University of Arkansas at Monticello; $1.5 million for a fieldhouse at Arkansas State University at Jonesboro; $700,000 to renovate the University of Central Arkansas fieldhouse; $500,000 for additional development of Village Creek State Park near Forest City and $300,000 for a veterans home at Little Rock.

Bomb threat disrupts Muny

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Nearly 7,-000 persons were evacuated from the Municipal Opera Monday night after a bomb threat was received during the opening performance of the musical, "Kismet," authorities said.

Police said a switchboard operator received a telephone call at about 9 p.m. telling her a bomb was set to go off at 9:30 unless $1,000 was dropped off at the main post office downtown.

Officials at the opera called police, who ordered the management to halt the production and begin an evacuation of the open-air theatre while police searched for the bomb.

The evacuation was described as orderly and there were no injuries.

Authorities called off the search around 10 o'clock after no bomb was found.

It was the second bomb threat since 1975 to force the evacuation of the theater. Nearly 8,000 persons were evacuated during the last performance of the "Mitzi Gaynor Show" in August, 1975.

Polanski could be imprisoned

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Movie director Roman Polanski, who pleaded guilty to unlawful sexual intercourse with a 13-year-old girl, could face up to 50 years in prison or commitment to a state mental hospital and possible deportation from the United States.

Superior Court Judge Laurence J. Rittenband, who accepted Polanski's plea Monday, appointed two psychiatrists to examine the director and report Sept. 19 on whether he is a mentally disordered sex offender.

The dimunitive Polanski, 43, clad in a gray pinstripe suit, stood before the judge and declared, "I had sexual intercourse with a female person not my wife under the age of 18."

Polanski, who won fame with such movies as "Rosemary's Baby" and "Chinatown," told the judge he understood he could receive a sentence of 1 to 50 years in state prison as a result of his plea. The judge, who has discretion in passing sentence, could suspend sentence and place Polanski on probation.

Prosecutors said if Polanski is found to be mentally disordered, he could be committed. Polanski also must talk to probation officers who will file a report before his sentencing.

Missing material still disputed

WASHINGTON (AP) —A congressional staff investigator says one intelligence agency "believes there was a diversion" of nuclear material from a power plant, although officials from two agencies remain publicly confident that none of the missing 8,000 pounds of weapons-grade material was stolen.

The officials testified Monday before a House Commerce subcommittee looking into the way the federal government safeguards nuclear materials at both government and private plants.

"We are really confident that no radioactive materials have ever been gotten out of those plants," said Robert W. Fri, acting administrator of the Energy Research and Development Administration. But he added this was not "a 100 per cent certainty."

Fri and Lee V. Gossick, executive operations director of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, said processing problems, biased measurements or bookkeeping errors may account for the inability to trace the missing weapons-grade plutonium and uranium.

But after the two officials testified, a subcommittee investigator said the congressmen earlier had received testimony indicating some of the nuclear material may have been stolen.

Energy program analyzed

AFTON, Okla. (AP) — A strongly worded statement praising part of President Carter's energy program, but labeling it "dangerously weak from a production standpoint," was before the Midwestern Governor's Conference today.

Host Gov. David Boren, who was instrumental in drafting the proposal, said he is optimistic the statement would be approved by the 12 governors during the afternoon session.

"I think this is a very good thing," Boren said. "I'm hopeful the other governors will support it."

The three-page proposal praised Carter's "emphasis on the need for energy economy and conservation," but criticized its lack of production incentives and strongly advocated deregulation of prices for newly discovered natural gas.

Todays News In Brief

Water project fight goes on

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — The dispute between President Carter and Congress over water projects may not be finished.

A presidential aide who declined to be identified left open the possibility that Carter might send Congress what is called a recision and deferral message, listing congressionally-approved spending he wants either to delay or delete from the budget.

Senators doubt energy plan

WASHINGTON (AP) —Energy Secretary James C. Schlesinger is conceding that members of the Senate Finance Committee are skeptical about President Carter's energy plan.

Schlesinger urged the panel on Monday to restore proposed gasoline taxes to energy legislation passed last week by the House, where the administration suffered a setback.

Soviet growth slowing down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two members of Congress say they are surprised by a CIA report concluding there may be a slowing of the Soviet Union's economic growth rate in the next decade.

Rep. Richard Bolling, D+Mo., and Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said the CIA finding is of profound significance to Soviet leaders who may be forced to decide whether to continue high levels of military spending.

Parliament debating strike

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — The Canadian Parliament was meeting today to consider emergency legislation imposing a settlement in Canada's crippling, three-day-old air traffic controllers strike. The 2,200 controllers are demanding a 12.6 per cent pay increase. The proposed legislation would impose an 8 per cent hike.

Arkansas gets more funds

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas has about $23 million more than it expected for construction projects.

It appears that a number of projects approved by the legislature last March will now be funded instead of waiting until next year, as was expected.

It also appears that several athletic and recreational facilities construction projects approved for state universities will also have funds available.

The $23 million in unexpected revenue comes from state tax collections that are surpassing forecasts.

The $23 million is made up of $9.3 million turned back from state agencies and institutions, $1.9 million left over from the last fiscal year, $8.4 million from a reserve fund created by the 1975 General Assembly and more than $3.7 million from an unused construction program.

Projects that now appear likely to be funded include $5.75 million for a health and physical education building at the University of Arkansas at Pine Bluff; $4.6 million for a business administration classroom building at the University of Arkansas at Little Rock; $8 million for a health and physical education building at the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville; $3.5 million for a student union at the University of Arkansas at Monticello; $1.5 million for a fieldhouse at Arkansas State University at Jonesboro; $700,000 to renovate the University of Central Arkansas fieldhouse; $500,000 for additional development of Village Creek State Park near Forest City and $300,000 for a veterans home at Little Rock.

Bomb threat disrupts Muny

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Nearly 7,-000 persons were evacuated from the Municipal Opera Monday night after a bomb threat was received during the opening performance of the musical, "Kismet," authorities said.

Police said a switchboard operator received a telephone call at about 9 p.m. telling her a bomb was set to go off at 9:30 unless $1,000 was dropped off at the main post office downtown.

Officials at the opera called police, who ordered the management to halt the production and begin an evacuation of the open-air theatre while police searched for the bomb.

The evacuation was described as orderly and there were no injuries.

Authorities called off the search around 10 o'clock after no bomb was found.

It was the second bomb threat since 1975 to force the evacuation of the theater. Nearly 8,000 persons were evacuated during the last performance of the "Mitzi Gaynor Show" in August, 1975.

Polanski could be imprisoned

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Movie director Roman Polanski, who pleaded guilty to unlawful sexual intercourse with a 13-year-old girl, could face up to 50 years in prison or commitment to a state mental hospital and possible deportation from the United States.

Superior Court Judge Laurence J. Rittenband, who accepted Polanski's plea Monday, appointed two psychiatrists to examine the director and report Sept. 19 on whether he is a mentally disordered sex offender.

The dimunitive Polanski, 43, clad in a gray pinstripe suit, stood before the judge and declared, "I had sexual intercourse with a female person not my wife under the age of 18."

Polanski, who won fame with such movies as "Rosemary's Baby" and "Chinatown," told the judge he understood he could receive a sentence of 1 to 50 years in state prison as a result of his plea. The judge, who has discretion in passing sentence, could suspend sentence and place Polanski on probation.

Prosecutors said if Polanski is found to be mentally disordered, he could be committed. Polanski also must talk to probation officers who will file a report before his sentencing.

Missing material still disputed

WASHINGTON (AP) —A congressional staff investigator says one intelligence agency "believes there was a diversion" of nuclear material from a power plant, although officials from two agencies remain publicly confident that none of the missing 8,000 pounds of weapons-grade material was stolen.

The officials testified Monday before a House Commerce subcommittee looking into the way the federal government safeguards nuclear materials at both government and private plants.

"We are really confident that no radioactive materials have ever been gotten out of those plants," said Robert W. Fri, acting administrator of the Energy Research and Development Administration. But he added this was not "a 100 per cent certainty."

Fri and Lee V. Gossick, executive operations director of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, said processing problems, biased measurements or bookkeeping errors may account for the inability to trace the missing weapons-grade plutonium and uranium.

But after the two officials testified, a subcommittee investigator said the congressmen earlier had received testimony indicating some of the nuclear material may have been stolen.

Energy program analyzed

AFTON, Okla. (AP) — A strongly worded statement praising part of President Carter's energy program, but labeling it "dangerously weak from a production standpoint," was before the Midwestern Governor's Conference today.

Host Gov. David Boren, who was instrumental in drafting the proposal, said he is optimistic the statement would be approved by the 12 governors during the afternoon session.

"I think this is a very good thing," Boren said. "I'm hopeful the other governors will support it."

The three-page proposal praised Carter's "emphasis on the need for energy economy and conservation," but criticized its lack of production incentives and strongly advocated deregulation of prices for newly discovered natural gas.

100 greet Midwest Plains champs on return home from tourney

"They went up there as a team, they played as a team and they won as a team."

Those were the words of Pat Collins, manager of the Sikeston 13-year-old Babe Ruth All-Stars, who won the Midwest Plains Regional Tournament Sunday. He addressed the remarks to a group of about 100 followers of the team who turned out at the Junior High School to welcome back the team from Morehead, Minnesota.

The All-Stars, who trounced Fargo, North Dakota 16-0 Sunday afternoon to capture Sikeston's first-ever championship trophy in a Babe Ruth Regional tournament, flew back to St. Louis Monday evening, then drove to Sikeston, where they received a police escort to the Junior High School, where the welcoming reception began.

Roger Sherman, vice-commissioner of the Sikeston Junior Babe Ruth League, spoke on behalf of the big crowd and welcomed the boys back to Sikeston.

Sikeston mayor Eric Piel congratulated the team for their accomplishment and told them that Sikeston was proud of them for what they had done. He then turned the program over to Pat Collins.

Collins introduced the All-Stars, then talked about the tournament with the crowd.

"It was a team effort completely," said Collins. "We got good pitching, good hitting and good defense." He was not exaggerating the facts. Sikeston hurlers tossed three shutouts in four games at Morehead, scored runs at an average of over nine per game (two of the games were stopped after five innings) and made only six errors.

Pat gave credit to the defense for backing up the pitchers so well. "In one ballgame our pitcher had one walk and one strikeout, and the other team hit the ball every other time. That means the team had to back up our pitching."

Brother Mike Collins, who shared the coaching duties, praised the depth of the All-Stars. "We used only three pitchers in the tournament," he said, referring to Steve Green, Nick Garner and Mike Hurley, "But we could have used all six we took up there. In three of the four games, Sikeston used all fifteen players on the squad, giving everybody a chance to get in on the fun.

"The team was 100 per cent better than when they started," said Mike, referring to the teams slow start in their post-season play. The All-Stars dropped a 6-5 decision to Dexter in the first game of the District tournament at Dexter, then came back to win thirteen games in a row to sweep District, State and Regional play.

"We had a good district tournament. Dexter could be competitive with the teams up there."

There is no World Series in the 13-year-old division of Babe Ruth Baseball, so the All-Stars can hang up their spikes for this season. But with a good group in the 14-15 year-old class (second place in their state tournament) and with this year's 13-year-olds moving up a notch on the Babe Ruth ladder, the club can look forward to more long distance baseball trips in the future.

Welcome back

Sikeston's 13-year-old Babe Ruth All-Stars were proud, but hungry when they arrived back in Sikeston Tuesday night after a week in Morehead, Minnesota, where they won the Midwest Plains Regional Tournament. About 100 followers of the club turned out at the Sikeston Junior High to welcome the club back home from their memorable trip.

Hrabosky coming back around, says Vern Rapp

NEW YORK (AP) — Al Hrabosky is up to his old tricks—storming off the mound, intimidating batters and looking like a world-beater.

"Claude Osteen made me get back to fundamentals," said the St. Louis Cardinal relief star. "He told me what I was doing wrong."

With some words of advice from the Cardinal pitching coach, Hrabosky is a revitalized player, and Monday night showed some of his old form by helping the Cardinals beat the New York Mets 4-2.

"This was the best Hrabosky has pitched since before the All-Star Game," said St. Louis Manager Vern Rapp. "The reason is simple. Hrabosky was all mixed up. He was throwing awkwardly, out of stride and very sloppily.

"He knows it and he has been working hard on it. That's why he is getting better. I think as he gets better, the tightness and nervousness that he showed before is disappearing."

Hrabosky's confidence has improved vastly since his talks with Osteen.

"My job is to do what I did tonight," said Hrabosky, who pitched two innings of one-hit relief, "and I've got every faith in myself that I can do it."

Ken Reitz' home run with two on in the ninth inning gave Hrabosky his winning runs, improving his record to 4-4.

Jerry Koosman, 8-12, had limited St. Louis to five hits in eight innings before the Cards broke through in the ninth. Gary Templeton singled to left to start the inning and was sacrificed to second by Hector Cruz.

Koosman intentionally walked Ted Simmons and the runners moved up to second and third on a ground ball by Keith Hernandez. Reitz then hit one of Koosman's pitches over the left field fence.

Eric Rasmussen started for St. Louis and lasted seven innings before being removed for a pinch-hitter. He was touched for a home run by John Stearns in the second inning, which broke an 0-for-16 slump by the catcher, who hit his last home run July 1.

The Cards got their first run off Koosman in the first inning when Templeton beat out an infield hit, stole second and went to third when Stearns threw into center field. Hector Cruz' single knocked Templeton home.

Murcer's homers thrill youth

CALUMET CITY, Ill. (AP) — Scott Crull can't shout and holler over the little he has to be joyous about. But what Bobby Murcer did for him Monday night over national television was "the best thing of my life."

What Murcer did was fulfill a wish from the seriously ill boy earlier Monday—and then some. The Chicago Cubs right fielder had told him he would try to hit a home run and a double; he delivered two homers. The bombs came during a game between the Pittsburgh Pirates and Murcer's—and Scott's—Cubs.

"It was obvious from his smile, Scott was pleased about it," said Mrs. Dwight Crull, mother of the 12-year-old, after the second of Murcer's solo blasts. "He can't holler and yell like the other kids because his lungs are affected.

"Bobby Murcer is sure putting on a show for him."

After the game, she added, "He just said, 'I guess that one's for me.' He was a little thrilled about that. It just meant everything to him. He's a little short of breath and he can't yell and holler."

In his first two times at bat against the Pirates, Murcer drove a pair of solo home runs over the right-field wall off Pirate pitcher Bruce Kison.

In the locker room before the game, Murcer had talked by telephone with the bedridden youth. The call came about after a friend of the youth's family contacted Buck Peden, the Cubs' publicity director. Murcer had never met the youth.

Scott's mother said her son, the youngest of four boys and a girl, has been ill for three years and has "been doctored" for the last month. He's "always been a Cub fan—I am too," Mrs. Crull said.

Nine cut by Cards

ST. CHARLES, Mo. (AP) — Nine players were cut Monday by the St. Louis Cardinals as they reduced their roster to the 60-player National Football League limit.

Veteran linebacker Mike McGraw, 6-foot-2, 215 pounds from Wyoming, was among the players cut. He was a 10th round draft choice for St. Louis in 1975.

He was cut before the 1975 season, but rejoined the team as a free agent last year and served special-team duty in four games.

"McGraw was the only one anybody would consider a surprise, I suppose," said Joe Sullivan, Cardinal director of operations. "But we knew his assets and his limitations. By letting him go now, it gives him a chance to hook on with somebody else."

Others dropped were center guard Dan Sinclair; wide receivers Wayne Carmody, Bob Lavergen and Gil Foushee; linebackers Terry McCabe and David Headstream; cornerback Greg Lee and offensive tackle Dave Conrad.

Sinclair, Carbody, Foushee, Lavergne, Headstream and McGraw were free agents. Lee was the Cards' 11th-round draft pick from Western Illinois and Conrad was picked up on waivers from the New York jets two weeks ago.

100 greet Midwest Plains champs on return home from tourney

"They went up there as a team, they played as a team and they won as a team."

Those were the words of Pat Collins, manager of the Sikeston 13-year-old Babe Ruth All-Stars, who won the Midwest Plains Regional Tournament Sunday. He addressed the remarks to a group of about 100 followers of the team who turned out at the Junior High School to welcome back the team from Morehead, Minnesota.

The All-Stars, who trounced Fargo, North Dakota 16-0 Sunday afternoon to capture Sikeston's first-ever championship trophy in a Babe Ruth Regional tournament, flew back to St. Louis Monday evening, then drove to Sikeston, where they received a police escort to the Junior High School, where the welcoming reception began.

Roger Sherman, vice-commissioner of the Sikeston Junior Babe Ruth League, spoke on behalf of the big crowd and welcomed the boys back to Sikeston.

Sikeston mayor Eric Piel congratulated the team for their accomplishment and told them that Sikeston was proud of them for what they had done. He then turned the program over to Pat Collins.

Collins introduced the All-Stars, then talked about the tournament with the crowd.

"It was a team effort completely," said Collins. "We got good pitching, good hitting and good defense." He was not exaggerating the facts. Sikeston hurlers tossed three shutouts in four games at Morehead, scored runs at an average of over nine per game (two of the games were stopped after five innings) and made only six errors.

Pat gave credit to the defense for backing up the pitchers so well. "In one ballgame our pitcher had one walk and one strikeout, and the other team hit the ball every other iime. That means the team had to back up our pitching."

Brother Mike Collins, who shared the coaching duties, praised the depth of the All-Stars. "We used only three pitchers in the tournament," he said, referring to Steve Green, Nick Garner and Mike Hurley, "But we could have used all six we took up there. In three of the four games, Sikeston used all fifteen players on the squad, giving everybody a chance to get in on the fun.

"The team was 100 per cent better than when they started," said Mike, referring to the teams slow start in their post-season play. The All-Stars dropped a 6-5 decision to Dexter in the first game of the District tournament at Dexter, then came back to win thirteen games in a row to sweep District, State and Regional play.

"We had a good district tournament. Dexter could be competitive with the teams up there."

There is no World Series in the 13-year-old division of Babe Ruth Baseball, so the All-Stars can hang up their spikes for this season. But with a good group in the 14-15 year-old class (second place in their state tournament) and with this year's 13-year-olds moving up a notch on the Babe Ruth ladder, the club can look forward to more long distance baseball trips in the future.

Welcome back

Sikeston's 13-year-old Babe Ruth All-Stars were proud, but hungry when they arrived back in Sikeston Tuesday night after a week in Morehead, Minnesota, where they won the Midwest Plains Regional Tournament. About 100 followers of the club turned out at the Sikeston Junior High to welcome the club back home from their memorable trip.

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. — Top-seeded Guillermo Vilas forced errors with a barrage of powerful ground strokes to beat second-seeded Roscoe Tanner 6-4, 6-2 in the championship match of an $85,000 clay court open tennis tournament Monday.

The 24-year-old Argentine ran his winning streak on clay to 29 straight matches, dating back to the French Open in June.

INDIANAPOLIS — Unheralded Mary Hamm upset defending champion and No. 1 seed Kathy May in the opening round of the 67th U.S. Open Clay Court tennis tournament.

'Mr. Cub' honored at Cooperstown

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — "Words almost fail here," Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said as he introduced Ernie Banks to an overflowing throng that witnessed induction ceremonies for the six newest members of baseball's Hall of Fame.

"They called him 'Mr. Cub,'" Kuhn said.

No other introduction was necessary on Monday for the former Chicago Cubs infielder who blasted 512 home runs in his 19-year major league career.

"We got the setting—sunshine, fresh air, the team behind us. So let's play two," Banks said, eliciting a roar of approval from the crowd which included some 600 Cubs' fans who had come to this village in central New York.

They remembered a Babe Ruth home run in Yankee Stadium, a Jackie Robinson steal of home, a Sandy Koufax no-hitter. Now it was Ernie Banks entering the Hall of Fame.

"He had the movements of a great watch," Judy Johnson, a Hall of Famer himself, said about Banks. "You set it today and it keeps perfect time. "Banks was one of the best baseball competitors we've ever had. I have never heard any bad remarks about him. He was and is a gentleman."

The crowd in the tree-shaded park agreed. One fan held up a sign proclaiming "America Loves Ernie Banks."

Also receiving plaques at the dedication ceremonies were Al Lopez, Joe Sewell, Amos Rusie, Martin Dihigo and John Henry "Pop" Lloyd, swelling the Hall's membership to 163. Rusie, Dihigo and Lloyd were honored posthumously.

Lopez, who caught more major league games than anyone, was honored for his managerial skills. In the 16 years he managed the Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox, his teams won two American League pennants and finished second 10 times.

Dihigo is the first Cuban to be enshrined in the Hall. Accepting his plaque was his cousin, Jose Valdivielso, a former pitcher with the Washington Senators. Two men unfurled a Cuban flag when Valdivielso approached the podium.

John Amos Rusie accepted for his uncle and James Ursury of Atlantic City, N.J., where a baseball field is named for Lloyd, accepted for the former Negro League infielder.

In the 35th annual Hall of Fame exhibition game played at Doubleday Field, built on the site where the first baseball game was reportedly played, the Minnesota Twins used home runs by Terry Bulling, Lyman Bostock and Bob Gorinski and three innings of no-hit pitching by Gary Serum to defeat the Philadelphia Phillies 8-5.

Before the game, broadcaster Mel Allen introduced members of the Hall of Fame who had returned to Cooperstown: Charley Gehringer, Bill Terry, Joe Cronin, Bob Feller, Luke Appling, Burleigh Grimes, Red Ruffing, Lloyd Waner, Roy Campanella, Stan Coveleski, Stan Musial, Rube Marquard, Buck Leonard, Monte Irvin, George Kelly, Cool Papa Bell, Jocko Conlan, Whitey Ford, Earle Averill, Billy Herman, Judy Johnson, Cal Hubbard.

Hot Angels sweep pair

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "Finally," said Bobby Bonds, "this team is playing the kind of baseball it should be playing.

"We're not out of it yet."

Pennant talk wafted through the California dressing room Monday night after the resurgent Angels swept a doubleheader from the Kansas City Royals to run their victory skein to six, their longest of a thus-far disappointing season.

The Angels, who loaded up with three high-priced free agents and immediately began sinking out of sight, now trail the front-running Chicago White Sox by 10 games in the American League West.

"We feel if we can pick up five games the rest of this month, we'll be right back in the middle of it, in good shape," said Bonds. "This team's attitude has been tremendous."

Taking advantage of several Royal mistakes, the Angels won the first game, 7-2, with Nolan Ryan hiking his record to 16-10. In the nightcap, Gil Flores banged three doubles and Bonds drove in three runs with a sacrifice fly and a home run for a 7-2 Angels victory.

"The season ends Oct. 2," said Bonds. "There's still a long way to go."

Royals Manager Whitey Herzog was fuming about his team's performance.

"I don't know why, but the worst four games we've played all year, we've played right here against these guys," he said. And Herzog wasn't about to discount California's pennant hopes.

"Sure, they've got a chance," he said. "It hurts them that there are four teams ahead of them and not just one. But it's not unreasonable for them to shoot for it."

The Angels jumped to big, early leads in each game. In the opener, Andy Hassler, 6-5, was driven from the mound in the second inning as singles by Ron Jackson, Mario Guerrero, Rance Mulliniks, Terry Humphrey and Flores gave Ryan a 4-0 lead.

Bonds chased Paul Splittorff, 9-6, in the fifth inning of the nightcap with his two-run homer that put the Angels into a comfortable 6-0 lead. Wayne Simpson won his sixth victory against eight losses with relief help from Dyar Miller.

"I don't think for a minute we will win every game," said Angels Manager Dave Garcia.

Junior Open at Dexter

DEXTER -- The Daily Statesman - Messenger will sponsor a Junior Tennis Open Saturday and Sunday, August 13 and 14 for girls and boys ages 11 to 18.

Tennis play will begin Saturday at 8 a.m. and resume Sunday in the early afternoon on the Dexter High School tennis courts. All participants must report to the high school courts prior to Saturday morning's opening round.

Age divisions for the tournament will be determined after all entry forms have been received. However, two-year age brackets are being planned.

There will only be one doubles division for boys and one doubles division for girls. Each doubles group will be for ages 15-18.

Entrants may sign up for either singles or doubles competition or both events.

Entry fee for the Open is $1.50 for singles and $1 per person in doubles competition. All participants must bring a new can of tennis balls with them.

Trophies will be awarded.

Entry forms may be mailed to the Daily Statesman - Messenger, P. O. Box 67, Dexter, Mo. 63841 or Frank Mathews, RFD 2, Dexter, Mo. 63841.

For further information contact either Frank Mathews or the Daily Statesman Messenger.

Entry forms should be received by August 12.

"The season ends Oct. 2," said Bonds. "There's still a long way to go."

Royals Manager Whitey Herzog was fuming about his team's performance.

"I don't know why, but the worst four games we've played all year, we've played right here against these guys," he said. And Herzog wasn't about to discount California's pennant hopes.

"Sure, they've got a chance," he said. "It hurts them that there are four teams ahead of them and not just one. But it's not unreasonable for them to shoot for it."

The Angels jumped to big, early leads in each game. In the opener, Andy Hassler, 6-5, was driven from the mound in the second inning as singles by Ron Jackson, Mario Guerrero, Rance Mulliniks, Terry Humphrey and Flores gave Ryan a 4-0 lead.

Bonds chased Paul Splittorff, 9-6, in the fifth inning of the nightcap with his two-run homer that put the Angels into a comfortable 6-0 lead. Wayne Simpson won his sixth victory against eight losses with relief help from Dyar Miller.

"I don't think for a minute we will win every game," said Angels Manager Dave Garcia.

Junior Open at Dexter

DEXTER -- The Daily Statesman - Messenger will sponsor a Junior Tennis Open Saturday and Sunday, August 13 and 14 for girls and boys ages 11 to 18.

Tennis play will begin Saturday at 8 a.m. and resume Sunday in the early afternoon on the Dexter High School tennis courts. All participants must report to the high school courts prior to Saturday morning's opening round.

Age divisions for the tournament will be determined after all entry forms have been received. However, two-year age brackets are being planned.

There will only be one doubles division for boys and one doubles division for girls. Each doubles group will be for ages 15-18.

Entrants may sign up for either singles or doubles competition or both events.

Entry fee for the Open is $1.50 for singles and $1 per person in doubles competition. All participants must bring a new can of tennis balls with them.

Trophies will be awarded.

Entry forms may be mailed to the Daily Statesman - Messenger, P. O. Box 67, Dexter, Mo. 63841 or Frank Mathews, RFD 2, Dexter, Mo. 63841.

For further information contact either Frank Mathews or the Daily Statesman Messenger.

Entry forms should be received by August 12.

Jaycee football sign-up Aug. 13

Registration for the 1977 Sikeston Jaycee Little League Football program will be held Saturday morning, August 13 at the Sikeston Senior High School Cafeteria.

Sixth and seventh graders wishing to participate in the league should sign up at the high school between 9:00 a.m. and 12:00 noon. They should be prepared to pay an insurance fee of $7.50 per player, which is required before players can practice.

Athletes will be assigned to teams, and practice will begin the following Monday August 15.

Players who cannot attent the registration should call Steve Sikes at 471-5668, Mike Taylor at 471-5165 or Charles Blanton at 471-1137.

Afraid You're Going Deaf?

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

Send for this non-operting model, put it on and wear it in the privacy of your own home. While many people with a hearing loss will not receive any significant benefit from any hearing aid, this non-working model will show you how tiny hearing help can be, and it's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 9730, Beltone Electronics Corp., 4201 W. Victoria, Chicago, Illinois 60646.

Glendella May heads arthritis campaign at Oran

Mrs. James May, Oran, has been named Oran Community Chairwoman of The Arthritis Foundation's 1977 campaign. The annoucement was made by John E. Dooling, president of the Eastern Missouri Chapter of the national non profit voluntary health association.

The theme for the fund raising campaign to be conducted during September is "Give a Hand to the People in Pain." The September campaign will include the annual door-to-door Victory March for Arthritis, as well as a business gifts drive and other special events.

More than 3,000 people in Scott County have arthritis, according to Mr. Dooling, who said, "The time is now to make progress against America's No. 1 crippling disease."

Funds raised this year will support The Arthritis Foundation's continuing program in public and professional education, patient care in eight eastern Missouri clinics, and research in three medical institutions. The cause and cure for more than 100 forms of arthritis are being sought.

Anyone wishing to help with The Arthritis Foundation campaign in Oran may telephone Mrs. May at 1-262-3630.

Erma meets the ironing fanatic

By Erma Bombeck

An ad in a midwest newspaper read, WANTED: Woman to do ironing for housewife 10 years behind in everything. Must have strong courage and sense of humor. Phone -------.

Now there's a woman I could live next door to in perfect harmony. I iron "By appointment only." I learned long ago that if I ironed and hung three dresses in my daughter's closet, she would change three times during dinner.

The other day my son wanted me to iron his jeans for a class play. "Which leg faces the audience?" I asked with my iron poised in mid-air.

"Boy," he said, "you're sure not like Mrs. Breck."

I hadn't thought about Mrs. Breck in years. She was an antiseptic old broad who used to live two houses down from me. She had an annoying habit of putting her ironing board up on Tuesdays and putting it away again at the end of the day. (What can you expect from a woman who ironed belt buckles?)

One afternoon I dropped in on her as she was pressing the tongues in her son's tennis shoes.

"You know what you are, Mrs. Breck?" I said. "A drudge."

"Oh, I enjoy ironing," she said.

"You keep talking like that and someone is going to put you in a home."

"What's so bad about ironing?" she grinned.

"No one does it," I snapped. "Did you ever see the women on soap operas iron? They're just normal, American housewives. But do you ever see them in front of an ironing board? No! They're out having abortions, committing murder, blackmailing their boss, undergoing surgery, having fun! If you weren't chained to this ironing board you, too, could be out doing all sorts of exciting things."

"Like what?" she chuckled, pressing the wrinkle out of a pair of sweat socks and folding them neatly.

"You could give Tupperware parties, learn to scuba dive, learn hotel management while sitting under a hair dryer, have an affair with the Avon lady's unemployed brother-in-law, sing along with Jack LaLanne, collect antique barbed wire, take a course in Hebrew Flower Arranging, start chain letters . . . I don't know, woman, use your imagination!"

I read the newspaper ad again. It intrigued me so that I dialed the number and waited.

"Hello, Mrs. Breck speaking . . ."

Son of a gun. It sure makes you feel good when you had a part in someone's success, doesn't it?

Mrs. Beechum was observing the methods used in Missouri with the implementing of a small farms, family program.

West Africa economist pays visit to Southeast Missouri's small farms

ADVANCE -- Visiting Southeast Missouri families recently was Mrs. Agnes Beechum, a home economist from Ghana, West Africa. While in the area, Mrs. Beechum worked with Mrs. Mary Keene of Advance, who is the education assistant of the small farms, family program, sponsored by the University of Missouri.

Mrs. Beechum is a graduate of Cornell University, Ethica, N. Y. and is visiting in the state to observe our methods of implementing the small farms, family program.

Ghana has a program for their small farmers, similar to the one used in the states. It is her hopes to take back new ideas and methods to apply in updating their program.

She visited two weeks in Missouri and returned to Columbia University last week for a six week training session. After the session Mrs. Beechum will tour California, Ohio and Illinois before returning to Ghana in October.

Mrs. Beechum said her visit was very pleasant as well as informative. She related many of her country's customs and methods to those used in Southeast Missouri.

Dear Ann Landers

New wife faces adopted problems

Dear Ann Landers: Five years ago I married a man who was divorced and had two adopted boys. He paid child support and saw the boys every other weekend.

To be perfectly honest, I couldn't stand them because I knew they were not his flesh and blood. I told thim he'd have to let their new stepfather adopt them or I'd get a divorce. He finally consented to the adoption and promised NEVER to see the boys again.

I got pregnant last year and now he has a blood son. It's been three years since he's seen those adopted kids. Yesterday his ex-wife sent a letter saying, "The boys are doing fine." (She even had the gall to enclose pictures.) What burns me up is that she has no intention of telling the boys they were adopted. I think I should tell the. They are 12 and 13 -- old enough to handle the truth. My husband says I'm wrong. He also says he's sorry he gave up his rights to see them -- and it's my fault.

This problem has caused many fights. My husband claims he can't forget about those kids and I am being unreasonable. They are NOT his blood sons and the thought of them makes me sick. Who is right? Shouldn't my husband tell them he's not and never was their REAL father?-- Trouble Brewin'

Dear Trouble: I have always taken the position that adopted children should be told early that they were "chosen," and in a case where there is a step-parent, that, too, should be explained.

Since your husband and his former wife did NOT choose to do so -- keep your nose out of it. I predict you're going to have your hands full holding your marriage together unless you fold out of this situation completely and let him do as he wishes in regard to his previous family.

Dear Ann Landers: It's been a while since you printed the letter from Good Fortune Cookie, the child who thought his stepdad was neat. I have not forgotten it. I'd like to advise any person about to wed a "single parent" that it is essential that you agree to joint discipline or make it clear at the outset that you will remain uninvolved.

Believe me, this is vital. You see, I too, was "neat," until it came time for my stepchildren to learn right from wrong.

All hell broke loose when my partner began challenging my authority and countermanding my disciplinary measures as if I was an interfering stranger.

If I did nothing, it meant more trouble. My non-action was interpreted as lack of love for the children. It didn't take long for the kids to pick this up. The result was extreme permissiveness, arguing between my spouse and myself and then -- open warfare.

The kids couldn't care less. They pushed our marriage over the cliff and left. What about us? We are as divided as we were during the years when we fought about them. But we still live under one roof -- like strangers, smiling on the outside and crying on the inside. Sign me -- Substitute

Dear Substitute: You call that living? Too bad you didn't seek the help of a counselor early and straighten the mess out -- or separate yourself from it.

Family Reunion

Hessling Family

BLOOMFIELD - Six of the seven children of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hessling had their annual family reunion July 31 at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. Eugene Hessling of Bloomfield. There were 81 present.

The day was spent in playing games, eating, taking pictures and discussing what had happened in the previous year. The largest family present at the reunion was Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Davis of Sikeston. The family that traveled the farthest distance to the reunion was Staff Sargent and Mrs. Norval Driskill of Granview, Mo.

Those attending from Sikeston were Mr. and Mrs. Ken Stricker, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Hadley and daughter Heather, daughter Tammy and Leslie Hasting; Mr. and Mrs. Everett Kelly and their children Michelle and Kem Elizabeth.

From Dexter: Mr . and Mrs. Ronnie Hessling, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hessling, daughter Annett son's Paul Bradley; Rev. Everett Lee, Mrs. Hessling and daughter Lee Ann; Mrs. Ralph Hessling and daughter Pam.

Those from Lilbourn: Mr. and Mrs. Rome Wilson, Mrs. Glen Hessling, son John and daughter Audrey; Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Hessling.

From St. Louis: Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hessling and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hessling and son Bernie. Also Roger Hessling and Susan attended.

Also attending from the area were: Mr. and Mrs. John Davis, Lalma; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Harris and children Bobby Jr., Carl and Holly, High Ridge; Mrs. Jim Christie and daughter Brooke of Imperial; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hadley and their two children of Farmington; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lucey, daughter Penny, son Kenny and Mrs. Naomi Lucey of Essex; Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hessling of Bloomfield; and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Driskill of Bell City.

Out of State guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Eakin and Carl Driskill Jr. and daughter Stephanie of O'Fallon, Ill.; Debbie and Michael McCormich of Cottage Hills, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. George Hessling and son Jarrod of Cahokia, Ill.; and Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Hessling, Tony Myers, and Bobby Winfield of Granite City, Ill.

DEAR POLLY — With food prices being what they are, it is especially hard on Senior Citizens and others who live alone. When I cook a pot of stew, soup, chili, etc. I make enough extra for another person. This is put in a plastic container and frozen. Then when I visit an elderly friend I take along a container of homemade food which is always greatly appreciated. In cooking for a family the little bit extra does not matter that much for me but does matter so much for someone living alone. — V.E.B.

HAVE YOU WRITTEN A BOOK?

Mr. John G. Long the field editor of a well-known New York subsidy publishing firm will be interviewing local authors in a quest for finished manuscripts suitable for book publication. All subjects will be considered, including fiction and non-fiction, poetry, juveniles, religious books, etc.

He will be in Sikeston in early October.

If you have completed a book-length manuscript (or nearly so) on any subject, and would like a professional appraisal (without cost or obligation), please write immediately and describe your work. State whether you would prefer a morning, afternoon, or evening appointment, and kindly mention your phone number. You will receive a confirmation by mail for a definite time and place.

Authors with completed manuscripts unable to appear may send them directly to us for a free reading and evaluation. We will also be glad to hear from those whose literary works are still in progress.

Family Reunion

Hessling Family

BLOOMFIELD - Six of the seven children of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hessling had their annual family reunion July 31 at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. Eugene Hessling of Bloomfield. There were 81 present.

The day was spent in playing games, eating, taking pictures and discussing what had happened in the previous year. The largest family present at the reunion was Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Davis of Sikeston. The family that traveled the farthest distance to the reunion was Staff Sargent and Mrs. Norval Driskill of Granview, Mo.

Those attending from Sikeston were Mr. and Mrs. Ken Stricker, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Hadley and daughter Heather, daughter Tammy and Leslie Hasting; Mr. and Mrs. Everett Kelly and their children Michelle and Kem Elizabeth.

From Dexter: Mr . and Mrs. Ronnie Hessling, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hessling, daughter Annett son's Paul Bradley; Rev. Everett Lee, Mrs. Hessling and daughter Lee Ann; Mrs. Ralph Hessling and daughter Pam.

Those from Lilbourn: Mr. and Mrs. Rome Wilson, Mrs. Glen Hessling, son John and daughter Audrey; Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Hessling.

From St. Louis: Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hessling and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hessling and son Bernie. Also Roger Hessling and Susan attended.

Also attending from the area were: Mr. and Mrs. John Davis, Lalma; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Harris and children Bobby Jr., Carl and Holly, High Ridge; Mrs. Jim Christie and daughter Brooke of Imperial; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hadley and their two children of Farmington; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lucey, daughter Penny, son Kenny and Mrs. Naomi Lucey of Essex; Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hessling of Bloomfield; and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Driskill of Bell City.

Out of State guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Eakin and Carl Driskill Jr. and daughter Stephanie of O'Fallon, Ill.; Debbie and Michael McCormich of Cottage Hills, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. George Hessling and son Jarrod of Cahokia, Ill.; and Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Hessling, Tony Myers, and Bobby Winfield of Granite City, Ill.

DEAR POLLY — With food prices being what they are, it is especially hard on Senior Citizens and others who live alone. When I cook a pot of stew, soup, chili, etc. I make enough extra for another person. This is put in a plastic container and frozen. Then when I visit an elderly friend I take along a container of homemade food which is always greatly appreciated. In cooking for a family the little bit extra does not matter that much for me but does matter so much for someone living alone. — V.E.B.

HAVE YOU WRITTEN A BOOK?

Mr. John G. Long the field editor of a well-known New York subsidy publishing firm will be interviewing local authors in a quest for finished manuscripts suitable for book publication. All subjects will be considered, including fiction and non-fiction, poetry, juveniles, religious books, etc.

He will be in Sikeston in early October.

If you have completed a book-length manuscript (or nearly so) on any subject, and would like a professional appraisal (without cost or obligation), please write immediately and describe your work. State whether you would prefer a morning, afternoon, or evening appointment, and kindly mention your phone number. You will receive a confirmation by mail for a definite time and place.

Authors with completed manuscripts unable to appear may send them directly to us for a free reading and evaluation. We will also be glad to hear from those whose literary works are still in progress.

"WELL, WHO WON THE BIG GAME?"

THE FAMILY CIRCUS. By Bil Keane

"Do we have to write our names or will Daddy sign for all of us?"

Today in U.S. History

Today is Tuesday, August 9, the 221st day of 1977. There are 144 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, the United States dropped the second atomic bomb on Japan, destroying more than half the city of Nagasaki.

On this date:

In 1638, a native of Holland, Jonas Bronck, became the first settler in what is now the Bronx, N.Y.

In 1831, the first train in the United States to be drawn by a steam locomotive made a run between the New York cities of Albany and Schenectady.

In 1842, a border dispute between the United States and Canada was settled in the Webster-Ashburton treaty.

In 1898, Spain formally accepted peace terms ending the Spanish-American War.

In 1902, Edward VII was crowned King of England following the death of his mother, Queen Victoria.

In 1942, the British arrested the Indian nationalist, Mohandas Gandhi. He was held until 1944.

Ten years ago: There were battles in the streets of Bogota and other Colombian cities as the national police tried to crush the largest underworld in Latin America.

Five years ago: The toll from a storm that had lashed the east coast, Hurricane Agnes, was set at 118 lives and more than $3 billion in damage.

One year ago: Hurricane Belle smashed across New York's Long Island with 100-mile winds.

Today's birthdays: Meteorologist Gordon Dunn is 72 years old. Former movie star Charles Farrell is 76.

Thought for today: Judge a man by his questions rather than his answers — Voltaire, French writer, 1694-1778.

Guardian Angel Church to be dedicated

60 years ago
August 9, 1917

Lola Shankle gave a party Tuesday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Shankle, in celebration of her birthday.

The registering of the women of Scott County for some sort of service for their country got a good start on last Saturday, when 720 signified their willingness and desire to help Uncle Sam during this time of war and need.

The new Catholic Church at Oran, named the Guardian Angel Church, recently completed at a cost of $60,000, will be dedicated by Archbishop John Joseph Glennon of St. Louis next Wednesday.

Recognition of Sikeston as a thriving community that gives promise of big opportunities in the automobile field, has led Dodge Brothers to establish representation here, with the General Garage as the newly appointed dealer. Mr. Erdman has just been notified that he now has the exclusive selling rights in this territory.

50 years ago

Canalou--Doser Greer of Charter Oak visited relatives here Sunday.

Matthews--Earl Swartz was in Sikeston Tuesday on business.

Morehouse--Frank Russell of Charleston was a visitor here Tuesday.

Lynn Galeener, who recently went to Houston, Tex., has secured a lucrative position in a drug store and is well pleased with his new location.Lynn also plays with the Missouri Orchestra there.

40 years ago
August 9, 1937

Fifty-nine officers and enlisted men of Company K at Sikeston, will entrain here next Sunday for a two-week encampment at Ft. Riley, Kas.

Mr. Sorrells, our new music director in the local school system, will be in the music room at the high school building all day on Wednesday of this week and wants to interview at that time all members of the band and orchestra.

H. E. Wood has joined the real estate firm of H. E. Randolph and henceforth the firm will be known as the Randolph-Wood Realty Co. Mr. Wood comes from Alton, Ill.

Flames starting from an unknown origin gutted a 12-room and a six-room house at Morehouse in a spectacular fire Sunday night. The 12-room, two-story house, one of the largest and best in Morehouse, was owned by William Mathis, farm overseer and WPA foreman, who resided there. A second-floor apartment, where the conflagration started, was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John McVey. North of the Mathis residence on Scott street, the home of John Spence caught on fire after volunteers worked fruitlessly for 30 minutes to save it. It was occupied by R. C. Hunnicutt, butcher for the Fox Store in Morehouse.

August 9, 1947

Garland Hughes, 26 years old, formerly of Matthews, was killed by a bolt of lightning Thursday at Forrest City, Ark., where he had lived two years. He would have been 27 years old on Friday. Hughes and a Negro helper were operating a hay baler in a field, when a thunderstorm came. As they started to a shelter the bolt struck, killing Hughes and injuring the Negro.

Mrs. Byron Poynor of Sikeston, Route 3, entertained with a party in honor of the sixth birthday of her daughter, Bonnie Gail.

Hospital notes. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ford of Sikeston became parents of a daughter today.

Mrs. Dorothy Parker of Hartford, Ill., had a baby girl on the 10th a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Paul McCarver of East Prairie.

August 9, 1957

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors for the Delta Community Hospital, Thursday, Harold L. Jones, formerly principal of the Matthews school, was unanimously elected as administrator for the hospital to succeed Robert J. Genins, who has resigned and leaves September 1 to be associated with the General Board of Lay Activities of the Methodist Church in Chicago.

Kendall Sikes announced today that a store building will be built immediately on the empty lot just south of the post office, and when completed one side will be occupied by a Sears-Roebuck Mail Order store. Occupancy of the other side is under negotiation and the tenant will be announced later.

Albert Marcus, 64-year-old former resident of Southeast Missouri, died Thursday at his home in Riverdale, Ark.

Babies born at the Delta Community Hospital yesterday were: A baby girl for Mr. and Mrs. Theon Grojean of Sikeston; a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Heckert of Bertrand; and a son for Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Givens of Essex.

Virgil Owings, jr., of Morehouse was graduated with honors from Missouri University at Columbia, Mo., Friday. He and his family will move to St. Louis, where he has a position with the accounting firm of Arthur Andersen and Co.

James Bond movie scripts not repetitious

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "The thing about the James Bond movies is that you can't repeat yourself, and yet the audience demands similar ingredients. Writing them becomes a brain-breaking thing."

Richard Maibaum knows. He has coauthored eight of the 10 Bond movies (not including the maverick "Casino Royale"). The latest is on view throughout the nation this summer: "The Spy Who Loved Me," starring Roger Moore, Barbara Bach, Curt Jergens and 7-foot-2 Richard Kiel as Jaws, whose steel teeth are as lethal as a Sten gun.

Maibaum was a curious choice to become 007 laureate. He is about as British as a Coney Island red hot. Born in New York City, he attended New York University, graduated from the University of Iowa and came to Hollywood in 1936 after making a name for himself as playwright.

He worked on such scripts as "They Gave Him a Gun," "Stablemates," "I Wanted Wings," produced combat films for the Army during the war, returned to write and produce "The Great Gatsby" (Alan Ladd version), "The Big Clock," "No Man of Her Own," and so on.

"I first wrote the script of 'Thunderball.' But because of a lawsuit against Fleming over the rights to 'Thunderball,' 'Dr. No' was filmed first. United Artists rather reluctantly advanced $600,000. The picture cost about $1 million, I believe."

What's the law?

The case of the shrinking employe

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Nervous Ned suffered from psychological problems that plagued him night and day. When he finally began shaking like a pair of dice, he applied for a Workman's Compensation award, claiming that all of his problems were due to his job. In turn, his employer insisted that Ned undergo psychiatric treatment to build up his emotional condition and thus cut down on the amount of his award.

"Not me," was Ned's answer. "I'm not going to any shrink. They're all whacky."

"If you don't go," was his employer's threat, "I'll fight your award and you won't get a red cent."

Having less confidence in psychiatry than in his boss' threat, Ned took the matter to court, where his boss continued to insist, "No treatments -- no benefits."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold back on Ned's Workman's Compensation benefits unless he went to a shrink?

This is how the judge ruled: YES. The Judge held that an employe can be denied Workman's Compensation benefits when he suffers from a psychiatric disorder and refuses to undergo psychiatric treatment that is likely to improve his condition and which involves no serious suffering or danger to himself.

(Based upon a 1962 Florida Supreme Court Decision)

Former L.A. chief new 'Police Story' adviser

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Joe Wambaugh, the ex-police sergeant who created NBC's "Police Story," has quit as its consultant. His successor this season: Tom Reddin, ex-chief of Los Angeles' finest.

But it's not a new TV experience for Reddin, 65, who began as a cop pounding a skid row beat here in 1941, rose through the ranks and headed the LAPD for two years before retiring in 1969.

He says he worked as an adviser on Jack Webb's old "Dragnet" series while still serving in the stern, old-school administration of the police department's late Chief William Parker.

Reddin praises Webb's painstaking efforts back then to accurately depict police work. But of the two shows, he says he likes "Police Story" best.

This, he said, is "because 'Dragnet' would never put on anything that indicated a policeman had any kind of weakness or was truly human."

In contrast, he added, the newer series, which starts its fifth season on Sept. 27, is both "an accurate depiction of the job and shows that the people on the job have the same frailties as the rest of the population, that the policeman isn't any 'miracle person...'"

Reddin, after retiring, worked three years as a news anchor and commentator at KTLA-TV here, then ran for mayor, lost, and went into the private security business. He now owns his own security firm.

Guardian Angel Church to be dedicated

60 years ago
August 9, 1917

Lola Shankle gave a party Tuesday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Shankle, in celebration of her birthday.

The registering of the women of Scott County for some sort of service for their country got a good start on last Saturday, when 720 signified their willingness and desire to help Uncle Sam during this time of war and need.

The new Catholic Church at Oran, named the Guardian Angel Church, recently completed at a cost of $60,000, will be dedicated by Archbishop John Joseph Glennon of St. Louis next Wednesday.

Recognition of Sikeston as a thriving community that gives promise of big opportunities in the automobile field, has led Dodge Brothers to establish representation here, with the General Garage as the newly appointed dealer. Mr. Erdman has just been notified that he now has the exclusive selling rights in this territory.

50 years ago

Canalou--Doser Greer of Charter Oak visited relatives here Sunday.

Matthews--Earl Swartz was in Sikeston Tuesday on business.

Morehouse--Frank Russell of Charleston was a visitor here Tuesday.

Lynn Galeener, who recently went to Houston, Tex., has secured a lucrative position in a drug store and is well pleased with his new location.Lynn also plays with the Missouri Orchestra there.

August 9, 1937

Fifty-nine officers and enlisted men of Company K at Sikeston, will entrain here next Sunday for a two-week encampment at Ft. Riley, Kas.

Mr. Sorrells, our new music director in the local school system, will be in the music room at the high school building all day on Wednesday of this week and wants to interview at that time all members of the band and orchestra.

H. E. Wood has joined the real estate firm of H. E. Randolph and henceforth the firm will be known as the Randolph-Wood Realty Co. Mr. Wood comes from Alton, Ill.

Flames starting from an unknown origin gutted a 12-room and a six-room house at Morehouse in a spectacular fire Sunday night. The 12-room, two-story house, one of the largest and best in Morehouse, was owned by William Mathis, farm overseer and WPA foreman, who resided there. A second-floor apartment, where the conflagration started, was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John McVey. North of the Mathis residence on Scott street, the home of John Spence caught on fire after volunteers worked fruitlessly for 30 minutes to save it. It was occupied by R. C. Hunnicutt, butcher for the Fox Store in Morehouse.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors for the Delta Community Hospital, Thursday, Harold L. Jones, formerly principal of the Matthews school, was unanimously elected as administrator for the hospital to succeed Robert J. Genins, who has resigned and leaves September 1 to be associated with the General Board of Lay Activities of the Methodist Church in Chicago.

Kendall Sikes announced today that a store building will be built immediately on the empty lot just south of the post office, and when completed one side will be occupied by a Sears-Roebuck Mail Order store. Occupancy of the other side is under negotiation and the tenant will be announced later.

Albert Marcus, 64-year-old former resident of Southeast Missouri, died Thursday at his home in Riverdale, Ark.

Babies born at the Delta Community Hospital yesterday were: A baby girl for Mr. and Mrs. Theon Grojean of Sikeston; a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Heckert of Bertrand; and a son for Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Givens of Essex.

THE NAVY. IT'S NOT JUST A JOB, IT'S AN ADVENTURE.

In the Navy, a job means more than just a good paycheck.

It means the adventure of seeing places like Greece, Spain, Hawaii and Hong Kong. It means becoming an expert on exciting technical equipment in our submarines, on our jets, and in our ships. It means doing a job that really counts, with people who count on you to do it.

The Navy can give you training in more than 60 career fields. Talk it over with your Navy recruiter. He'll be able to tell you what you can qualify for in the Navy:

Burial will follow in Dexter Cemetery.

Teasdale rejects referendum plea

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) - An upcoming special session of the Missouri General Assembly will not include a referendum proposal on the Meramc Dam project — and the reason is pure politics.

The office of Gov. Joseph P. Teasdale announced his decision on the referendum issue Monday as he left for the Midwestern Governors Conference in Afton, Okla.

"The governor has not indicated he is opposed to the referendum. He favors it," Brendan Ryan, a legislative aide to Teasdale, said Monday at the conference.

"But he says the divisive nature of the referendum question would interfere with the completion of the unfinished business on capital improvements, which is the purpose of the special session."

Teasdale himself was not immediately available for comment on the issue.

The Missouri legislators are scheduled to return to Jefferson City Wednesday to consider a $125 million capital improvements bill and a new state prison.

Teasdale called the special session after legislative leaders last month reached a tentative compromise on the prison issue.

Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., had asked Teasdale to include a nonbinding referendum on the dam issue in the special session's agenda.

Ichord said he was not surprised by Teasdale's decision and could understand the governor not wanting to include another controversial issue in the special session.

Congress last month refused to authorize financing for the project, which would be built by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers about 70 miles southwest of St. Louis.

Grocery game liquor enforcement weighed

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State liquor control officials are considering whether to attempt enforcements of two liquor regulations in connection with bingo-type games being operated in more than 200 Missouri grocery stores.

William Mounts, attorney for the state Division of Liquor Control, said he planned to discuss enforcement efforts with vacationing division Supervisor Albert Letz and a decision could be made today.

The way for possible enforcement action against grocery stores operating the games was cleared by the Missouri Court of Appeals in Kansas City last week.

Chief Appellate Judge Ben Swofford issued an order requiring Cole County Circuit Judge James Riley to refrain from any action on a request by the stores that Letz be prohibited from enforcing the regulations until the appeals court has completely reviewed the matter. A hearing was set for Sept. 26 before the full appeals court.

Riley had issued a temporary injunction last month prohibiting Letz from enforcing the regulations against the stores. Swofford said the appellate order now permits liquor control officials to decide whether they want to begin enforcing the regulations pending further court action.

The grocery stores sought Riley's order after Letz advised them in June that the games could violate two liquor regulations. One prohibits lotteries on premises where liquor is sold, and the other prohibits advertising liquor in connection with store promotions.

Letz testified last month that based on investigations by his office into the games he felt they violated the regulations.

Attorneys for the stores have said, however, there is no evidence to show that the games are a lottery or that they have been advertised with liquor.

But the lawyers also said that if Letz is permitted to take enforcement action before the matter is finally decided in the courts, the stores will halt the games immediately because of the threat to their liquor licenses.

Bedwell receives Ph.D.

Wade Bedwell of Sikeston received his Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D) in special education at commencement ceremonies of Southern Illinois University in Carbondale on Aug. 6.

Bedwell received his Bachelor of Arts from Harding College. Master of Education from the University of Missouri and was first to receive the specialist degree in education from Southeast Missouri State University in 1974.

Bedwell is principal of Lee Hunter Elementary School in Sikeston. He has been employed by Sikeston Public Schools for 10 years and has been in the field of education for 17 years.

Bedwell has published several articles in professional education journals. He is active in providing special help for handicapped children. He is a member of local and state teachers associations, as well as the American Psychological Association, American Association on Mental Deficiency, American Parapsychological Research Fellowship and Phi Delta Kappa.

He is a minister of the church of Christ and an active member of the congregation in Morehouse.

His biography appeared in Personalities of the West and Midwest (1970-71), Dictionary of International Biography (Vol. 4, 1972-73), International Who's Who in Community Service (1975), and has been selected to appear in the latest edition of Who's who in the Midwest.

Dr. Bedwell is married to the former Emma Faye Jarrell of Dexter. He is the son of Horace and Wilda Bedwell. He lives at 501 N. Ingram with his wife, their two sons, Michael and Jonathan, and his parents.

Sikeston Community Teachers Association president Jean Doyle said it is believed that Bedwell is the first to receive a Ph.D. degree while employed in the Sikeston Public Schools.

Couple runs haven for animals

GLEN ELLYN, Ill. (AP) — Bunnies "by the bushel full," baby birds and raccoons, foxes, chipmunks, snakes, squirrels, turtles, eagles—almost any injured or homeless creature of the American wild may find refuge at the Willowbrook Wildlife Haven.

Here, Dorothy and Richard Hoger splint legs and wings of the injured and treat and care for the sick and abandoned from the animal world.

They've been doing it for three decades, helping nature nurture these creatures.

It started as a family project in 1946 when the couple and their children lived in the village of Westmont and cared for 50 creatures a year brought to Mrs. Hoger by friends and neighbors. In those days, Hoger said, "The postman used to bring her a nest of baby birds with the mail."

Since 1958 they have lived at the haven, a 41-acre refuge donated by the DuPage County Forest Preserve, where 4,000 creatures are treated and cared for each year.

Mrs. Hoger devotes all her time to the work. Hoger, who works at Argonne National Laboratory, works with the animals in his spare time and during vacations.

McDonald to present recital

Hal Mark McDonald will be presented in a piano recital by Southern Illinois University -- Edwardsville on Thursday.

The recital will be at 8:15 p.m. in Lovejoy Library auditorium.

Composers' works represented on the program will include Beethoven, Ravel, Debussy, Mozart, Copeland, Scarlatti and Brahms.

McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louie McDonald of Matthews Route one, is a piano performance major studying with Jane Allen at the Saint Louis Conservatory of Music and with Ruth Slenzcynska at SIU-E.

Puxico begins homecoming events tonight

NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETING

A hearing will be held at 4:00 P.M., August 15, 1977 in the Council Chambers at the City Administration Building, 215 North New Madrid, Sikeston, Missouri at which Citizens may be heard on the property tax rates proposed to be set by the City of Sikeston. The tax rates are set to produce the revenues which the budget for the fiscal year beginning May 1, 1977, shows to be required from the property tax. The tax rate is determined by dividing the amount of gross revenue needed by the current assessed valuation. (The result is multiplied by 100 so the tax rate will be expressed in cents per $100 valuation.) (2)

Real Property, Assessed Valuation, $21,916,050., Adjustment for Questionable Assessments, o percent $00, Adjusted Assessed Valuation 1977, $21,916,050, Prior Years Valuation 1976, $20,586,935.

Personal Property, Assessed Valuation, $5,945,902., Adjustment for Questionable Assessments, 15 percent, ($891,886), Adjusted Assessed Valuation 1977, $5,054,016., Prior Years Valuation 1976, $4,236,750.

Merchants & Manuf., Assessed Valuation, $2,044,876., Adjustment For Questionable Assessments, 7 per cent, ($143,142), Adjusted Assessed Valuation 1977, $1,901,734, Prior Years Valuation 1976, $1,533,540.

Railroad & Utility, Assessed Valuation, $1,944,304, Adjustment For Questionable Assessments, 0 percent $00, Adjusted Assessed Valuation 1977, $1,944,304, Prior Years Valuation 1976, $1,947,066.

Total Assessed Valuation $31,851,132, Total Adjusted Assessed Valuation 1977, $30,816,104, Total Prior Years Valuation 1976, $28,304,291

The Following Tax Rates Are Proposed: General Fund Amount of Property Tax Revenues Budgeted, $457,341 (2) Proposed Tax Rate Per $100 $1.57 (1).

The City of Sikeston's Assessed Valuations are prepared by Scott and New Madrid Counties.

(1) The General Fund tax revenues include the Park Fund, Library Fund, and 1965 G. O. Bond.

(2) The difference between the City's Budgeted Tax Revenues and the results of applying the tax rate to the Adjusted Assessed Valuation is due to a 5.5 percent factor for taxes levied but not received during the current fiscal year.

Edward C. Matthews, Jr., President, Bank of Sikeston, is shown with Mr. James P. Johnson discussing the jewelry business of today compared to as it was when he opened his store in 1921.

Mr. James P. Johnson in his new Jewelry Store in 1921

DO YOU REMEMBER WHEN.....

The Johnson Jewelry Company came to Sikeston?

The James P. Johnson Jewelry Company came to Sikeston in 1918. The Johnson Jewelry Company was first located in the Rhodes Tanner Building on Front Street, but later moved to the McCoy Tanner Building on New Madrid Street, which is now occupied by Moore's Hardware Store.

Mr. Johnson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Johnson came to Sikeston in 1888 from El Dorado, Illinois. Mr. James P. Johnson was born April 13th, 1895. He attended the Sikeston Public Schools. After graduation he attended the St. Louis watchmaking college from which he graduated.

Mr. Johnson served in World War I in the 89th Infantry Division. After receiving his honorable discharge, he opened his new jewelry store.

Mr. Johnson is semi-retired but still does a "little peddlin-around" at his "little hole in the wall" as he says, at 142 Front St., next to Mac's Barber Shop.

While in high school Mr. Johnson worked in the Men's department of the Farmers Supply Store, which is now occupied by the Magic Mart Store.

Mr. Johnson said, "It was really rough in those days. I remember when I made my first deposit at the Bank of Sikeston in 1907 after selling my bicycle for $5.00. I've been a depositor of the bank since then. We have always been well pleased with the service we've received from the bank and felt like any time we needed financial help, we could depend on the bank to help us out." "The employees are all very pleasant and eager to serve everyone."

Mr. Johnson married the former Mary Wilson, they had two children, Mary Ann Cook of St. Petersburg, Florida and one son James P. Johnson, deceased. They have 8 grandchildren and 3 great grandchildren.

Mr. Johnson is a member of the Masoniclodge No. 310 for the past 61 years.

We at the Bank of Sikeston are privileged to have Mr. Johnson as one of our customers. Mr. Johnson's story, like ours, is the story of Sikeston. The story of Sikeston is a fascinating saga of industrious people, progressive businesses and economic development. We are proud of our past and confident in our future.

Teasdale rejects referendum plea

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) - An upcoming special session of the Missouri General Assembly will not include a referendum proposal on the Meramc Dam project — and the reason is pure politics.

The office of Gov. Joseph P. Teasdale announced his decision on the referendum issue Monday as he left for the Midwestern Governors Conference in Afton, Okla.

"The governor has not indicated he is opposed to the referendum. He favors it," Brendan Ryan, a legislative aide to Teasdale, said Monday at the conference.

"But he says the divisive nature of the referendum question would interfere with the completion of the unfinished business on capital improvements, which is the purpose of the special session."

Teasdale himself was not immediately available for comment on the issue.

The Missouri legislators are scheduled to return to Jefferson City Wednesday to consider a $125 million capital improvements bill and a new state prison.

Teasdale called the special session after legislative leaders last month reached a tentative compromise on the prison issue.

Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., had asked Teasdale to include a nonbinding referendum on the dam issue in the special session's agenda.

Ichord said he was not surprised by Teasdale's decision and could understand the governor not wanting to include another controversial issue in the special session.

Congress last month refused to authorize financing for the project, which would be built by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers about 70 miles southwest of St. Louis.

Grocery game liquor enforcement weighed

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State liquor control officials are considering whether to attempt enforcements of two liquor regulations in connection with bingo-type games being operated in more than 200 Missouri grocery stores.

William Mounts, attorney for the state Division of Liquor Control, said he planned to discuss enforcement efforts with vacationing division Supervisor Albert Letz and a decision could be made today.

The way for possible enforcement action against grocery stores operating the games was cleared by the Missouri Court of Appeals in Kansas City last week.

Chief Appellate Judge Ben Swofford issued an order requiring Cole County Circuit Judge James Riley to refrain from any action on a request by the stores that Letz be prohibited from enforcing the regulations until the appeals court has completely reviewed the matter. A hearing was set for Sept. 26 before the full appeals court.

Riley had issued a temporary injunction last month prohibiting Letz from enforcing the regulations against the stores. Swofford said the appellate order now permits liquor control officials to decide whether they want to begin enforcing the regulations pending further court action.

The grocery stores sought Riley's order after Letz advised them in June that the games could violate two liquor regulations. One prohibits lotteries on premises where liquor is sold, and the other prohibits advertising liquor in connection with store promotions.

Letz testified last month that based on investigations by his office into the games he felt they violated the regulations.

Attorneys for the stores have said, however, there is no evidence to show that the games are a lottery or that they have been advertised with liquor.

But the lawyers also said that if Letz is permitted to take enforcement action before the matter is finally decided in the courts, the stores will halt the games immediately because of the threat to their liquor licenses.

Bedwell receives Ph.D.

Wade Bedwell of Sikeston received his Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D) in special education at commencement ceremonies of Southern Illinois University in Carbondale on Aug. 6.

Bedwell received his Bachelor of Arts from Harding College. Master of Education from the University of Missouri and was first to receive the specialist degree in education from Southeast Missouri State University in 1974.

Bedwell is principal of Lee Hunter Elementary School in Sikeston. He has been employed by Sikeston Public Schools for 10 years and has been in the field of education for 17 years.

Bedwell has published several articles in professional education journals. He is active in providing special help for handicapped children. He is a member of local and state teachers associations, as well as the American Psychological Association, American Association on Mental Deficiency, American Parapsychological Research Fellowship and Phi Delta Kappa.

He is a minister of the church of Christ and an active member of the congregation in Morehouse.

His biography appeared in Personalities of the West and Midwest (1970-71), Dictionary of International Biography (Vol. 4, 1972-73), International Who's Who in Community Service (1975), and has been selected to appear in the latest edition of Who's who in the Midwest.

Dr. Bedwell is married to the former Emma Faye Jarrell of Dexter. He is the son of Horace and Wilda Bedwell. He lives at 501 N. Ingram with his wife, their two sons, Michael and Jonathan, and his parents.

Sikeston Community Teachers Association president Jean Doyle said it is believed that Bedwell is the first to receive a Ph.D. degree while employed in the Sikeston Public Schools.

Couple runs haven for animals

GLEN ELLYN, Ill. (AP) — Bunnies "by the bushel full," baby birds and raccoons, foxes, chipmunks, snakes, squirrels, turtles, eagles—almost any injured or homeless creature of the American wild may find refuge at the Willowbrook Wildlife Haven.

Here, Dorothy and Richard Hoger splint legs and wings of the injured and treat and care for the sick and abandoned from the animal world.

They've been doing it for three decades, helping nature nurture these creatures.

It started as a family project in 1946 when the couple and their children lived in the village of Westmont and cared for 50 creatures a year brought to Mrs. Hoger by friends and neighbors. In those days, Hoger said, "The postman used to bring her a nest of baby birds with the mail."

Since 1958 they have lived at the haven, a 41-acre refuge donated by the DuPage County Forest Preserve, where 4,000 creatures are treated and cared for each year.

Mrs. Hoger devotes all her time to the work. Hoger, who works at Argonne National Laboratory, works with the animals in his spare time and during vacations.

New chief justice tackles revised court system

By GARY HARDEE
Missouri Press News

JEFFERSON CITY — A little more than one month ago, J.P. Morgan quietly assumed duties as chief justice of the Missouri Supreme Court. It was no big deal, says Morgan, who has been a state supreme court judge since 1969. Just a new title and a few extra duties.

One of those new duties, however, may become a real headache.

"July 1 it became my job to see that the new court plan is implemented," Morgan says, refering to the constitutional revision of Missouri's court system approved by voters last August.

"It will take some work," he says. "But I think it will be okay."

Under the new plan, which takes effect in January, 1979, Missouri's probate and magistrate courts will be incorporated in the circuit court system. All probate and magistrate judges will become associate circuit court judges.

The plan received unanimous support by the board of governors of the Missouri Bar, which has been working on the plan to revise Missouri's court system since 1964. The plan is designed to eliminate court congestion.

Because of the circuit court's appellate jurisdiction over county, probate and magistrate courts, many cases are heard at both levels. Under the new plan, there will be only one trial at the circuit court level, and appeals will go directly to the Missouri Court of Appeals.

"You'll get one good trial the first time. If you feel abused, then it will go straight to the appellate court," Morgan says.

"So many cases are tried a second time in circuit court. For too many witnesses this is a burden on them to show up a second time, and the witness fee is not much compensation," he says.

Morgan has spent his first month as chief justice preparing legislation that, if passed during the next legislative session, will enable Missouri's judges to implement the revised court plan.

"What the plan needs is a statutory enactment that says the associate circuit judges can handle anything assigned to them by the circuit judges," Morgan says.

Under the existing system, circuit court judges are allowed only to assign certain types of cases, such as uncontested marriage dissolutions or hardship driving cases, to the magistrate courts. Morgan's idea is to increase this authority to ease the work load of circuit court judges.

Morgan recognizes, however, that this idea creates problems for the probate and magistrate court judges who will become the new associate judges.

"The judges in the specialty courts will have to be educated in how to handle some of the circuit court business," Morgan says.

"The specialty courts are designed to handle special problems. It is still debatable that they should be eliminated at all. What I'm saying is that we heard testimony from the judges of the big cities (St. Louis and Kansas City) who say that you have to leave one judge to do just probate work," Morgan says.

"For example, what about guardians looking after wards? A judge may get to know one guardian, and he may become skeptical about how he is taking care of the wards. To be effective in the big probate courts, there has to be continuity of judgeship," Morgan says.

Another problem that Morgan has to work out is how clerks duties will be assigned.

"There are a lot of mechanical problems to figure out," he says. "Like whether or not one clerk should be primarily responsible for most of the work of the circuit, or if there should be one circuit clerk of each county.

"There is also some discussion as to whether (the new circuit) clerks should be appointed or elected," he says. At present, circuit clerks are elected, while probate and magistrate clerks are appointed.

Despite the problems, Morgan believes the revised system will dispose of litigation quicker.

"It will work. There is no reason why we can't get competent judges who can dispose of litigation quickly," he says.

Special session opens Wednesday

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Legislative leaders see no major hangups to acceptance of the proposed prison compromise by the full House and Senate when they convene in special session on Wednesday.

"I don't see too many problems on it," said House Democratic Floor Leader Joe Holt of Fulton. "I just wish they'd quit talking about a particular site until we get the bill passed. That does bother me a little."

Four attempts to locate a new medium-security prison in the Kansas City region have failed because of opposition from residents and officials of the areas involved. The local opposition precipitated an impasse between the House and Senate earlier this year that forced the special legislative session.

The compromise measure shifts consideration for the new prison to the St. Louis region, but already residents of two areas mentioned as potential sites—Potosi and Gumbo—have voiced opposition. Some lawmakers feel that could pose problems for acceptance of the compromise plan, but not ones big enough to jeopardize its passage.

"I don't sense any problem from the legislators on the prison issue," said Senate Appropriations Chairman Donald Manford.

"We probably have a sound approach in doing something in the corrections field," the Lee's Summit Democrat said. "I sense nothing but support from the other legislators on the compromise."

Legislative leaders also said they oppose the addition of any other issues like the renewed proposal for a referendum on the controversial Meramec Dam to the session's agenda.

Democratic U.S. Rep. Richard Ichord of south-central Missouri asked Gov. Joseph Teasdale last Monday to include the referendum plan in the session. His request for a limited public vote, criticized by a number of opponents to the dam, came after Congress agreed to halt funding for the project, which Ichord has strongly supported.

"I know Ichord would like to be taken off the hook, but we had those bills in last session and the same people who now say they want a vote were against them then," said Holt. "It's past us now. I don't think we need to take it up."

Teasdale has also been asked to include conflict of interest legislation, defeated in the last session, but again lawmakers were not enthusiastic.

"We've got enough controversy on the capital improvements bill," House Speaker Kenneth Rothman said. "They should start working on their bills for next year."

The prison compromise calls for $25 million for construction of a 500-inmate medium security prison in the St. Louis area and $11.6 million for renovation and some construction at current prison facilities, including the main prison in Jefferson City.

The prison situation is the heart of the $120 million capital improvements measure for the present year. The inability of the House and Senate to reach agreement on the prison question led to the death of the entire bill during the recent regular session.

The House staunchly supported construction of a medium-security prison in an urban area, a plan that had gained legislative approval in both 1975 and 1976. But the Senate, breaking from that plan in mid+May, supported construction of a maximum-security facility in mid+Missouri.

Solar energy costs are compared at short course

Solar energy was the topic of the final session of the Energy Short Course at the Security Federal Savings and Loan Association building in Sikeston Monday.

Jack L. Boone, associate professor of electrical engineering at University of Missouri - Rolla, told 25 contractors and others related to construction trades, "Except in very favorable climates such as the southwestern part of the United States, solar heat must be supplemented by some form of conventional heat in order to make the overall system economically attractive."

For a fuel cost comparison Boone used a 1,500-square-foot residence. He computed the total operaional costs for a solar assisted heat pump system to be $90 per year. Conventional heating costs for the same house were as follows: All electric, $535.00 per year; propane, $256 per year; and natural gas, $146 per year.

According to Boone, "At an approximate cost of $4,000 additional investment, the solar assisted heat pump will readily pay back the investor if the replacement energy is electricity. If fuel cost increases as projected, pay back is also easily established relative to bottled gas and fuel oil. Finally, a statement relative to natural gas users - As long as the price stays where it is - use it."

Frank Capek, assistant professor of civil engineering, University of Missouri - Rolla, in summing up the four sessions of the short course said, "We all feel like the best place to spend your dollars for conserving energy, is on insulation."

Fredericka Plummer, area home economist, awarded 25, of the 31 enrollees in the short course, a certificate from the extension councils of the Bootheel Program Planning Unit representing University of Missouri - Lincoln University Extension. Mrs. Plummer was program coordinator for the short course.

Personal income gain outpaces price rises

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department says the growth of personal income from the first quarter of 1976 to the first quarter of 1977 outpaced the rise in consumer prices by 4¼ per cent.

Personal income increased 9¾ per cent during the period, compared with an increase of 5½ per cent in consumer prices, the department said Thursday.

All states and the District of Columbia reported an increase in personal income.

Six Western states plus Michigan and New Hampshire reported the largest rises in nonfarm personal income. Delaware and North Dakota had the smallest increases, both about 6 per cent or roughly equal to the increase in consumer prices.

Nevada led the states with a 14.4 per cent increase in nonfarm personal income, due largely due to increased tourism. Michigan was next with a 12.9 per cent increase, due to increased auto production.

The other Western states reporting large gains in nonfarm personal income were: Utah 12.7 per cent; Wyoming 12.7 per cent; Oregon 12.4 per cent; Idaho 12.2 per cent, and Montana 11.7 per cent. New Hampshire registered an increase of 11.9 per cent.

Michigan, Wyoming, Utah, Oregon and Idaho each had especially strong federal civilian or manufacturing payrolls in the first quarter.

Personal income consists of private and government wage and salary payments, interest, dividends, housing values and transfer payments before deduction for taxes.

Wise CB buyer shops around

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — It pays to shop around before putting your money down for a new 40-channel Citizens Band radio.

The prices vary widely, even for the same radio, and price tags on similar units may differ as much as $100.

Some of the best buys are found at some discount houses, which knock as much as $100 off name brand radios. Other discount houses, however, only stock little-known brands which may be difficult to get serviced.

A good deal may also be found at the small electronics shop, which specializes in service and installation of CBs, rather than sales.

The electronics technicians know they will pick up a few extra "Green Stamps," as CBers call money, installing the radio and selling antennas, power mikes and service.

So, many are willing to take a smaller profit on the radio itself.

The chain electronics stores also price the units competitively.

The situation has changed dramatically from a few years ago, when it was rare to find a good radio sold much below the manufacturer's suggested retail price.

A way to cut costs on the purchase of a radio is to make sure you are not getting features you don't need.

If you're planning to use a base station in your home, there is probably little need to have a radio with a digital clock. You can always look at a wall clock or at your watch to find out the time. The owners book which comes with the radio will tell whether the set has these features.

They can save many problems with unwanted electrical interference from the car's ignition system or other sources.

The same radio used in the car can also be used as a base station with the addition of a $25 power pack, a device which allows regular house current to power a radio designed for use with a car's 12-volt battery.

The power packs also may be used with tape decks designed for cars, so they can serve double duty.

Generally, mobile units, designed for car or truck use, are cheaper than the base stations made for use indoors.

New director views anti-crime program

By GARY HARDEE
Missouri Press News

JEFFERSON CITY — Missouri's criminal justice programs face a bleak financial future. Federal funding was cut about 30 per cent this year by Congress, and Nancy Griggs, new director of the Mid-Missouri Council on Criminal Justice, expects the trend to continue.

Mrs. Griggs was named director of the eight-county council July 7, a time when funds from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) had just been cut by more than $40,000 because of criticism in Congress that many LEAA-funded projects were ineffective.

Mrs. Griggs says the criticisms are valid, not because of poor results, but because the programs' goals are unrealistic.

"I think it was unrealistic to say that LEAA funds even in the high money years (1973 and 1974) could have prevented crime," Mrs. Griggs says. "It took us a long time to realize this. There are too many other variables involved."

She says the goal to reduce crime was set during 1968, when the Nixon administration poured a lot of money into "law and order" programs.

"The programs were set up to reduce crime by a certain percentage. That's kind of a built-in failure. We've got to have more realistic goals," Mrs. Griggs says.

"In those early years, they (the criminal justice councils) had more money than they knew how to spend. They had not defined specific objectives, so a lot of money was spent for questionable purposes like expensive crime control equipment," Mrs. Griggs says.

The Mid-Missouri council is one of 19 regions throughout Missouri which receives federal money for programs in four areas: the courts, juvenile projects, corrections and law enforcement.

Mrs. Griggs believes Missouri's programs have to be judged on an individual basis.

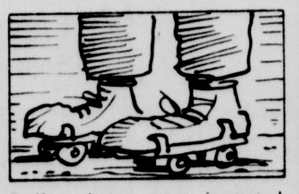
"The only thing you can do is make a good evaluation of your programs. For example, we started a crime prevention project in Boone County that had good results, but we can't show overall that we reduced crime," she says.

"We provide services for those who need them, but we can't predict that these services will result in a lower crime rate," Mrs. Griggs says.

Mrs. Griggs is not sure what new personal goals she will have for the Mid-Missouri council. She says she is still in the "information-gathering" stage of her director's job.

She will administer about $195,000 for programs in Boone, Cole, Callaway, Moniteau, Osage, Howard, Cooper and Audrain counties. Her annual salary is $16,000.

Mrs. Griggs hopes the program will not be scrapped because its goals need to be refined.



Roller skates were invented 114 years ago by Dr. James L. Plimpton, an American, who made $1 million from his ingenious idea.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department says the growth of personal income from the first quarter of 1976 to the first quarter of 1977 outpaced the rise in consumer prices by 4¼ per cent.

Personal income increased 9¾ per cent during the period, compared with an increase of 5½ per cent in consumer prices, the department said Thursday.

All states and the District of Columbia reported an increase in personal income.

Six Western states plus Michigan and New Hampshire reported the largest rises in nonfarm personal income. Delaware and North Dakota had the smallest increases, both about 6 per cent or roughly equal to the increase in consumer prices.

Nevada led the states with a 14.4 per cent increase in nonfarm personal income, due largely due to increased tourism. Michigan was next with a 12.9 per cent increase, due to increased auto production.

The other Western states reporting large gains in nonfarm personal income were: Utah 12.7 per cent; Wyoming 12.7 per cent; Oregon 12.4 per cent; Idaho 12.2 per cent, and Montana 11.7 per cent. New Hampshire registered an increase of 11.9 per cent.

Michigan, Wyoming, Utah, Oregon and Idaho each had especially strong federal civilian or manufacturing payrolls in the first quarter.

Personal income consists of private and government wage and salary payments, interest, dividends, housing values and transfer payments before deduction for taxes.

Wise CB buyer shops around

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — It pays to shop around before putting your money down for a new 40-channel Citizens Band radio.

The prices vary widely, even for the same radio, and price tags on similar units may differ as much as $100.

Some of the best buys are found at some discount houses, which knock as much as $100 off name brand radios. Other discount houses, however, only stock little-known brands which may be difficult to get serviced.

A good deal may also be found at the small electronics shop, which specializes in service and installation of CBs, rather than sales.

The electronics technicians know they will pick up a few extra "Green Stamps," as CBers call money, installing the radio and selling antennas, power mikes and service.

So, many are willing to take a smaller profit on the radio itself.

The chain electronics stores also price the units competitively.

The situation has changed dramatically from a few years ago, when it was rare to find a good radio sold much below the manufacturer's suggested retail price.

A way to cut costs on the purchase of a radio is to make sure you are not getting features you don't need.

If you're planning to use a base station in your home, there is probably little need to have a radio with a digital clock. You can always look at a wall clock or at your watch to find out the time. The owners book which comes with the radio will tell whether the set has these features.

They can save many problems with unwanted electrical interference from the car's ignition system or other sources.

The same radio used in the car can also be used as a base station with the addition of a $25 power pack, a device which allows regular house current to power a radio designed for use with a car's 12-volt battery.

The power packs also may be used with tape decks designed for cars, so they can serve double duty.

Generally, mobile units, designed for car or truck use, are cheaper than the base stations made for use indoors.

New director views anti-crime program

By GARY HARDEE
Missouri Press News

JEFFERSON CITY — Missouri's criminal justice programs face a bleak financial future. Federal funding was cut about 30 per cent this year by Congress, and Nancy Griggs, new director of the Mid-Missouri Council on Criminal Justice, expects the trend to continue.

Mrs. Griggs was named director of the eight-county council July 7, a time when funds from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) had just been cut by more than $40,000 because of criticism in Congress that many LEAA-funded projects were ineffective.

Mrs. Griggs says the criticisms are valid, not because of poor results, but because the programs' goals are unrealistic.

"I think it was unrealistic to say that LEAA funds even in the high money years (1973 and 1974) could have prevented crime," Mrs. Griggs says. "It took us a long time to realize this. There are too many other variables involved."

She says the goal to reduce crime was set during 1968, when the Nixon administration poured a lot of money into "law and order" programs.

"The programs were set up to reduce crime by a certain percentage. That's kind of a built-in failure. We've got to have more realistic goals," Mrs. Griggs says.

"In those early years, they (the criminal justice councils) had more money than they knew how to spend. They had not defined specific objectives, so a lot of money was spent for questionable purposes like expensive crime control equipment," Mrs. Griggs says.

The Mid-Missouri council is one of 19 regions throughout Missouri which receives federal money for programs in four areas: the courts, juvenile projects, corrections and law enforcement.

Mrs. Griggs believes Missouri's programs have to be judged on an individual basis.

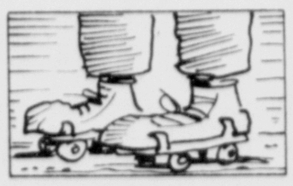
"The only thing you can do is make a good evaluation of your programs. For example, we started a crime prevention project in Boone County that had good results, but we can't show overall that we reduced crime," she says.

"We provide services for those who need them, but we can't predict that these services will result in a lower crime rate," Mrs. Griggs says.

Mrs. Griggs is not sure what new personal goals she will have for the Mid-Missouri council. She says she is still in the "information-gathering" stage of her director's job.

She will administer about $195,000 for programs in Boone, Cole, Callaway, Moniteau, Osage, Howard, Cooper and Audrain counties. Her annual salary is $16,000.

Mrs. Griggs hopes the program will not be scrapped because its goals need to be refined.



Roller skates were invented 114 years ago by Dr. James L. Plimpton, an American, who made $1 million from his ingenious idea.

GOP victory may prove defeat over long haul

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republicans who rallied behind the banner of party loyalty to beat public financing of Senate elections this week won a major legislative victory, but their own party may be the real loser in the long run.

Every available study indicates that private campaign financing for which the Republicans fought so hard overwhelmingly favors the Democrats.

There are all the old myths about the Republicans being the party of big business and big money, but the practical facts of life in modern politics give congressional Democrats the best chance at private campaign money.

This is based on two elemental facts.

—Democrats outnumber Republicans by about 2 to 1 in Congress.

—Most of the private money donated to political campaigns goes to incumbents.

Despite the lingering beliefs that labor money goes automatically to Democrats and business money to Republicans, the fact is that the smart money follows its best interests more often than its heart.

The average political contribution from the big money sources is aimed at courting a winner far more often than toward making a winner of an ideological or partisan friend. This usually translates into giving money to a powerful incumbent rather than taking a chance on a challenger.

Equally mythical is the idea that the GOP gets all the money it needs from "fat cat" contributors. For all practical purposes the "fat cat" of yesteryear is out of the game. He can still give, up to $25,000 total, but not more than $1,000 to any one candidate, and that can't buy much or help all that much.

The new force in campaign finance is the political action committee, or PAC in the jargon. Committees can give up to $5,000 to a candidate, and spread those $5,000 beneficencies among members of a congressional committee with considerable effect.

These special interest groups contributed almost $22.6 million to congressional candidates last year, almost double their 1974 gifts. And any way you look at it, this money favored incumbents and Democrats.

In contested congressional elections involving an incumbent, the incumbents received $13.2 million from special interest groups, compared to $4.1 million for their challengers.

That's a 3-1 edge over-all for the predominantly Democratic incumbents, but the ratios can go even higher when broken down into the various special interests.

Money from agricultural groups favored incumbents 7 to 1. Business groups, despite their generally presumed GOP preference, went 4 to 1 for incumbents regardless of party. Health groups favored office holders against outsiders by 3.5 to 1. Labor went for incumbents 3 to 1.

Approached another way, PACs associated with the securities industry, surely, the popular wisdom would say, friendly to the party of J. P. Morgan, gave $177,000 to congressional incumbents last year, and only $7,600 to challengers.

Likewise, PACs of the American Dental Association gave $288,000 to incumbents and $41,000 to challengers.

The simple law of averages says that if campaign donors favor incumbents and more incumbents are Democrats than Republicans the Democrats have to come out ahead. But it can be measured from another angle.

Maritime related unions, for example, gave $104,338 to members of the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries who were running for reelection in 1976. Democrats got $98,438 of it.

Dairy interests gave $205,986 to members of the House Agriculture Committee last year, and Democrats got $181,225 of that.

Traditionally, organized labor has had the advantage in PACs because of long experience, but the Republican party is pushing businesses to form their own political arms as a counter to labor.

Some 750 new PACs were formed last year and most of them were created by business firms, but even this does little to address the imbalance toward the incumbent Democrats.

Virtually all of labor's PAC money goes to Democrats, but because of the practical considerations of industry looking out for its interests and with an eye to spending its PAC money most effectively, the incumbent edge still holds.

And that means a Democratic edge. Studies of Federal Election Commission records have found that 40 per cent of the campaign gifts from these supposedly pro-Republican business PACs went to Democrats in 1976.

Legislator wants say in new sales tax lawsuits

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Senate Appropriations Chairman Donald Manford says he wants the legislature to enter two state Supreme Court lawsuits concerning the controversial one-eighth cent conservation sales tax.

The Lee's Summit Democrat said on Wednesday he would ask Senate President Pro Tem Norman Merrell to petition the high court for authority to enter the suits, both filed by the state Conservation Commission.

One suit against state Treasurer James Spainhower contends the commission can spend the sales tax revenues without a specific appropriation passed by the legislature. The other against state Revenue Director James LePage asks the court to force collection of the new sales tax on motor vehicle and trailer sales.

"This matter involves several millions of dollars of taxpayer's money and in my judgment it is a proper matter in which the General Assembly should be involved every step of the way," Manford said.

Truck driver cited for foiling purse snatcher

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A Tipton, Mo., truck driver is to be nominated for a Police Department citation following quick action on his part which foiled a daylight purse-snatching incident on a downtown street.

Central District police said Fred Napier, 35, was stopped at an intersection for a red light when he heard the screams of Terry Longworth, 18, a bookkeeper at a downtown clothing store.

Leaving his vehicle, police said, Napier wrestled with a young man who had knocked Miss Longworth to the ground and was attempting to wrestle a shoulder-strap purse from her arm.

Police said the assailant pushed Napier aside but that the strap of the purse broke, thus foiling his effort to rob her of more than $5,000 in receipts from the store she was intending to deposit at a nearby bank.

Singer Tony Orlando receiving treatment at private hospital

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Tony Orlando, confused and emotionally shattered, is being treated at a private hospital for stress brought on by the deaths of his sister and his pal Freddie Prinze, says a friend of Orlando.

"I was fortunate enough to get him where he is now without anyone knowing," said Orlando's press agent, Frank Lieberman, on Wednesday. "He is physically and emotionally exhausted. He's under a doctor's care in a hospital outside Los Angeles. His wife is with him."

Orlando surprised the entertainment world last month by announcing he was quitting. Lieberman said many pressures led to the decision.

"It's like a balloon," he said. "You can fill it up and fill it up and finally it pops."

When the balloon popped for Orlando, he was working the summer theater circuit. On July 23, he was a little late coming onstage at Cohasset, Mass.

When he did appear, he told a stunned audience that he was "quitting show business in the name of Jesus Christ."

"All the shows I do from now on will be with a guitar beside a hospital bed," he said.

Orlando also canceled a booking at the Warwick, R.I., Music Theater.

Buster Bonoff, owner of the Warwick, said he planned to sue the singer for the $200,000 in advance tickets he had to refund.

"We're probably not going to end up with anything," Bonoff said, "because the reason for his quitting is going to be that he was temporarily insane, or a nervous breakdown, or something. I can see it coming."

Orlando began singing professionally in New York at the age of 16. He had a hit record in 1961, "Half Way to Paradise," but his singijg cab'ejnht ed. He then worked several years as a promotor for a division of Columbia Records.

He returned to the performing side of the business in 1970, recording two big sellers — "Candida" and "Knock Three Times" as part of a group called "Dawn." It was composed of Orlando and two female singers named Telma Hopkins and Joyce Vincent Wilson.

But after the two hits, they became "Tony Orlando and Dawn" and went on to an even bigger song — "Tie a Yellow Ribbon" — and a TV variety special for CBS. Things were golden for Orlando.

Then, in early 1976, Orlando's sister, Rhonda Marie, died. She had been mentally retarded and stricken with cerebral palsy, and Orlando had cared for her since she was a year old.

His TV show was canceled in December.. A month later, his personal world was shattered by the suicide of comedian Freddie Prinze, who, like Orlando, had known the opposite worlds of New York's Hell's Kitchen and glamorous Hollywood.

"When Freddie died, he was there," said Prinze's mother, Maria Pruetzel. "He was there all 33 hours. He was there at his bedside, he was there at the funeral. He was really a gorgeous, gorgeous, human being."

Prinze's death apparently haunted Orlando.

'Freak' show baby bodies to be given decent burial

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP) — The corpses of 20 babies and fetuses found floating in glass jars bearing namecards such as "Cyclops," "Elephant Nose Baby," and "Frog Girl" are being held in a morgue while the coroner determines how they became a 75-cent-a-ticket carnival attraction.

The corpses were confiscated last week, said Lake County Coroner Robert Babcox, who termed the exhibit "absolutely ghoulish."

The exhibitor called it a "non-profit educational show."

"They are all in our county morgue, and will be given a decent burial," Babcox said Tuesday. "Everybody is entitled to a burial of some kind."

Babcox said that when he and his investigators first saw the tiny corpses in the Wondercade Exhibits show at the Lake County Fair at Grayslake, "We thought they were plastic or rubber, but our pathologist, Dr. Vernon Zech, examined them and found them to be human monstrosities."

The exhibitor, Chris Michael Christ, 29, of Gibsonton, Fla., was charged with the illegal disposition of bodies and illegal possession of human remains. He was released Monday on $2,000 bond and ordered to appear Aug. 15 in Circuit Court.

Babcox said he was attempting to find out where Christ obtained the dead infants and fetuses and how he managed to transport them across state lines without death certificates.

"We think the show came from Indiana," he said, "and we're looking into that."

Zech said the bodies, billed as "The World's Strangest Babies," were those of "malformed babies, ranging from gestation beyond live birth." He said he would attempt to establish the cause of death.

The exhibition of pickled "monster" babies and fetuses — particularly syphilitic stillbirths — was a common feature of carnival "freak" shows earlier in the century, but the practice has almost completely died out, Babcox said.

"I don't know how many shows there are like this," he added, "but we are going to stop it."

Babcox said three of his investigators visited the show Friday after receiving a telephone complaint from an anonymous woman whose young daughter reportedly became emotionally upset after viewing the exhibit. When the investigators discovered the nature of the show, they obtained a court order allowing them to confiscate the remains.

Area schools announce policy for free meals

Schools in the four-county area surrounding and including Scott County have announced its free and reduced price policy for school children unable to pay the full price of meals and extra milk served in schools under the National School Lunch, School Breakfast, and Special Milk Programs.

Area education officials have adopted the following family-size income criteria for determining eligibility:

| Family Size | Maximum Family Income Eligible for Free Meals and Free Extra Milk | Maximum Family Income Eligible for Reduced Price Meals |
|---|---|---|
| 1 | $3,930 | $6,120 |
| 2 | 5,160 | 8,050 |
| 3 | 6,390 | 9,970 |
| 4 | 7,610 | 11,880 |
| 5 | 8,740 | 13,630 |
| 6 | 9,860 | 15,380 |
| 7 | 10,890 | 16,980 |
| 8 | 11,910 | 18,580 |
| 9 | 12,840 | 20,030 |
| 10 | 13,760 | 21,470 |
| 11 | 14,680 | 22,890 |
| 12 | 15,590 | 24,310 |
| For each additional family member add | 910 | 1,420 |

Children from families whose income is at or below those shown are eligible for free meals and free extra milk, or reduced price meals. In addition, families not meeting this criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 per cent of income, special income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

Application forms are being sent home in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted any time during the school year.

To discourage the possibility of misrepresentation, the application forms contain a statement above the space for signature, certifying that all information furnished in the application is true and correct. An additional statement is added to warn that the application is being made in connection with the receipt of federal funds, that school officials may, for cause, verify the information in the application, and that deliberate misrepresentation of information may subject the applicant to prosecution under applicable State and Criminal statues.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals and milk for them they should contact the school.

If a family member becomes unemployed or if family size changes the family should contact the school. Such changes may make the children of the family eligible for reduced price meals or for free meals and free extra milk.

In the operation of child-feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color or national origin.

Under the provision of the policy, the Unit Administrators will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis or he may make a request either orally or in writing to the director of food services for a hearing to appeal the decision.

Hearing procedures are outlined in the policy. A complete copy is on file in each school and in the central office where it may be reviewed by an interested party. In Scott County, participating schools are Sikeston, Kelly at Benton, Oran, Chaffee, Ilmo-Scott City and Scott County Central.

In Mississippi County participating schools are Charleston, and East Prairie public schools and St. Henry Catholic School.

In Stoddard County participating schools are Bloomfield, Dexter, Advance, Bell City, Bernie, Puxico, and Richland.

In New Madrid County participating schools are New Madrid County R-1 Enlarged, Risco R-2 and Gideon 37x.

ABC movie scene outrages Ike's family

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In Mel Shavelson's script of a planned ABC movie, "Ike: The War Years," there's a scene that reportedly outraged the family of the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

It showed President Harry S. Truman in 1952, burning two letters in the presence of his military aide, Harry H. Vaughn. One, written shortly after the end of World War II, was from then-Gen. Eisenhower. In it, Ike purportedly told his Army boss, Gen. George C. Marshall, he wanted to come home from Europe, divorce his wife, Mamie, and marry his wartime driver-secretary, Kay Summersby.

The other letter, from Marshall, purportedly tells Ike he'll "bust" him out of the Army if he goes through with the idea.

The account of the letters is based on an interview Truman gave toward the end of his life to writer Merle Miller. Truman was quoted as saying he destroyed the letters, but how isn't specified.

Ike's son, John, in a coming collection of Ike's wartime letters to Mamie, some released to the Los Angeles Times last June, says the letters prove to him the divorce correspondence mentioned in Miller's book is an "egregious falsehood."

He also says there's "no evidence" Ike seriously considered divorce.

Problem is, nobody knows if the divorce letters exist. Vaughn says he retrieved for Truman some Eisenhower-Marshall letters, but neither read them nor saw Truman burn them.

Marshall's biographer, Dr. Forrest C. Pogue, is quoted as saying no divorce correspondence is among Marshall's papers and doubts such exists.

Which leaves veteran screenwriter Shavelson, 60, mulling over that controversial scene in his six-hour dramatization of Ike's war years, which ABC may air in 1978. No filming of it has begun yet.

Shavelson says the whole flap developed after the Eisenhower family, understandably protective of Mamie, saw the first draft of the screenplay he sent them and thought it was the version ABC would air.

"It was not," he said, emphasizing that there "never was any intent to blow that thing (the divorce letters account) into something distasteful..."

The problem "was that at the time I was writing the first draft, none of this stuff had surfaced," he said, referring to the comments of Vaughn, Dr. Pogue and Ike's son about the purported letters.

He said he'd talked with John Eisenhower and Ike's grandson, David, "to find out what the family sensitivity was" to mentioning the wartime romance Miss Summersby, now dead, claimed she'd had with Ike.

He declined to say what they told him, other than they felt the planned movie "had no meaning at all as far as Ike was concerned..."

Capitol Hill group starts school to train lobbyists

WASHINGTON (AP) — Want to win friends and influence legislation? How about creating a small bureaucracy of your own? And perhaps a small — or large — appropriation to go with it?

If so, and if you have the proper kind of minority organization behind you, there's a special school on Capitol Hill to teach you how to become a lobbyist — from back-slapping to mass mailings to using the tax code to your advantage. It even has a job placement program for talented young lobbyists.

The program, called Minority Legislative Education Program, was organized by a group of Capitol Hill aides and other Washington-wise young people to share their expertise with those who need it most but are not likely to acquire it without special help.

"There are very few black people who work in congressional relations," said Robert McAlpine, associate director for congressional relations for the National Urban League. "There is a great need to build up that expertise.

"That's where the ballgame is played, and if groups don't have abilities and skills and expertise in the legislative process, they can't compete."

MLEP produced a seminar for the Urban League, already one of the better known pressure groups, to sharpen its skills.

"I think many people who left that meeting went away with some ideas on how the Urban League could be more effective in the advocacy role," McAlpine said. "And I think they also were inspired."

Craig Burchette, a Harvard undergraduate who is an intern for a group called Self Determination for D.C., was tutored in such matters as staging events, drafting statements and congressional testimony and "the basic rudiments of the political system."

"The MLEP seminars have been great," Burchette said. "One I attended focused on the most important points at which to apply political pressure.

"We were taught how to become informed on legislation, basic tactical information, how to get in touch with your congressman or senator — about the need for going in there knowing your facts and not just tumbling in off the streets."

Dick Clark, executive director of the program and a lobbyist himself for Common Cause, said curricula are tailored to meet the needs of the specific organizations seeking help. Some problems are common among the groups, however.

"There is a classic mistake that most groups make," Clark said, "and that is to see their avenue of access as being through people they most naturally identify with."

That is, black groups turning to black congressmen, for example, "rather than the people who are more relevant to their issue objectives and policy objectives."

"Sometimes they will go to members (of Congress) who are not even on the committees of jurisdiction, which means already they are at a disadvantage," Clark said.

The program also aims at such nuts and bolts matters as how to analyze a legislative committee and approach it to the lobbyist's best advantage.

"Committees are where 90 per cent of the work of Congress is done," Clark said. "But if you are going to approach a committee, you need to know what are the relevant factors, the rules, the leadership, the interplay of forces."

There is also a related program of job development and placement, to identify a promising young lobbyist and get him into a place where he can use his skills.

While the program and its clients represent a range of minority interests and causes, the program itself is nonpartisan.

"We made the decision very early that we would not get involved in issues, but that our primary mission was to teach the process from the advocacy standpoint," Clark said.

By the very nature of its clientele — such as the Association of Black Psychologists, the National Coalition of Urban Indians and the Black United Fund — MLEP doesn't expect to be a profit maker.

It charges on ability to pay, and sometime that means no charge. The real financing comes from corporate and foundation grants and volunteer work from other groups.

But money is a very real part of the program's curriculum. High on the agenda is fund-raising and use of the revised tax code section dealing with the tax status of lobbying groups.

'Freak' show baby bodies to be given decent burial

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP) — The corpses of 20 babies and fetuses found floating in glass jars bearing namecards such as "Cyclops," "Elephant Nose Baby," and "Frog Girl" are being held in a morgue while the coroner determines how they became a 75-cent-a-ticket carnival attraction.

The corpses were confiscated last week, said Lake County Coroner Robert Babcox, who termed the exhibit "absolutely ghoulish."

The exhibitor called it a "non-profit educational show."

"They are all in our county morgue, and will be given a decent burial," Babcox said Tuesday. "Everybody is entitled to a burial of some kind."

Babcox said that when he and his investigators first saw the tiny corpses in the Wondercade Exhibits show at the Lake County Fair at Grayslake, "We thought they were plastic or rubber, but our pathologist, Dr. Vernon Zech, examined them and found them to be human monstrosities."

The exhibitor, Chris Michael Christ, 29, of Gibsonton, Fla., was charged with the illegal disposition of bodies and illegal possession of human remains. He was released Monday on $2,000 bond and ordered to appear Aug. 15 in Circuit Court.

Babcox said he was attempting to find out where Christ obtained the dead infants and fetuses and how he managed to transport them across state lines without death certificates.

"We think the show came from Indiana," he said, "and we're looking into that."

Zech said the bodies, billed as "The World's Strangest Babies," were those of "malformed babies, ranging from gestation beyond live birth." He said he would attempt to establish the cause of death.

Dengue-type illnesses reported

ATLANTA (AP) — Illnesses resembling dengue fever, which hasn't appeared in epidemic proportions in the United States since the 1940s, are being investigated in nine states and the District of Columbia, the national Center for Disease Control said today.

Previous suspect cases had been reported in Florida, Louisiana and New York.

The CDC said additional cases are being investigated in California, Georgia, Maine, Maryland, Virginia and Mississippi.

Blood samples from patients in these states are being studied at the CDC tropical diseases laboratories in San Juan, a spokesman said.

Dengue causes chills, headache, eye pain, severe muscle pains and is accompanied by a rash. It lasts for about a week but seldom causes death.

Airlines, passenger ships and travel agencies have been advised by the CDC to notify travelers to Jamaica, where the illness is widespread, that they should take precautions to avoid mosquito bites and that they should advise their physicians of any acute virus illness occurring within two weeks after leaving Jamaica.

Girls receives $100,000 in vaporizer suit

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A 9-year-old girl has received a $100,000 settlement in a suit filed in federal court after she was scalded by water which spilled from an electric vaporizer.

The $100,000 goes into a trust fund for Sarah Shaoul of Overland Park, Kan., a suburb of Kansas City. Judge William H. Becker approved another provision that the defendants pay $50,000 in legal fees and court costs.

They are Skaggs Drug Centers of St. Louis, Associated Chain Drug Stores, Inc., of New York and Northern Electric Co. of Chicago.

Sarah was 3 years old and the family lived in Kansas City at the time she was hurt. She had a cold and her mother put the vaporizer on a stand near her bed so its steam could clear congestion in her nose and throat and help her breathe.

Sarah fell out of bed in the night, the vaporizer tipped over and its hot water spilled on her.

The $6.65 million damage suit filed in her behalf said she was permanently disabled and disfigured by burns on her face, chest, back and arms. It contended the defendants did not provide adequate warning that the top of the vaporizer could come loose and spill the water.

Image of wife, children beating deaths linger on

PROSPECT, Conn. (AP) — Fred Beaudoin has a terrifying image fixed in his mind of a man beating his wife and seven children to death.

"I wake up once in a while," the big man cries openly. "I just can't sleep. I see these kids walking toward him with their arms open and he beating them."

Two weeks ago, while Beaudoin was working the midnight shift at a nearby aircraft factory, his wife, Cheryl, 29, their seven children and a young friend were found murdered in the Beaudoins' burned out home. The children ranged in age from 4 to 11. The medical examiner said they died of head injuries and smoke inhalation.

Beaudoin's foster brother, Lorne Acquin, 27, has been charged with the murders and with arson. He is in prison awaiting grand jury action on Sept. 7.

Beaudoin talked to a reporter Thursday in his mother's home for the first time since the tragedy. Wearing dungarees, he rocked silently in a chair, his brown eyes transfixed. Occasionally, he paced the room and sobbed.

Since the murders, Beaudoin has lost 15 pounds from his 185-pound frame.

He said he can never go back to the home where the children's toys are still in the yard and Cheryl's vegetable garden still grows. He has visited the graves a few times.

"I'm not doing much," he said. "I'm just hanging around the house. I started to leave and then I ended up turning around and coming back. I was going to go away just to be alone for a while but I'd rather be lonely with my friends."

The 33-year-old Beaudoin was asked if he thought he would be able to rebuild his life.

"I hadn't really thought about doing anything yet," he said. "It's just too soon. It's not so bad now, but that first week was terrible. We're getting back into shape, I guess, slowly."

His mother, Marion, said: "He is strong enough in his mind that he can do it, but it's going to take him a long time."

His days are preoccupied with thoughts of his wife and children.

"All I do is think about them," he said. "I just remember all the good things."

"I just can't imagine," he said in reference to a motive for the slayings.

"You had to know Cheryl to appreciate this fact. Nobody didn't like Cheryl. She was the type of person, she could walk into a room and you knew she just had to know everybody. She made everybody feel so at ease.

"I just can't imagine ..." he said, not finishing the sentence.

House red tape labeled waste of time, money

WASHINGTON (AP) — A management consulting firm says the House of Representatives wastes its own time and taxpayers' money through poor organization and excessive red tape.

The conclusion is contained in a report for the House Commission on Administrative Review, which is considering recommendations to streamline the internal organization of the House.

Prepared by the Westinghouse National Issues Center, the unpublished report offers a rare look at the financial operations of the House through the eyes of efficiency experts from private industry. A copy of the study was obtained by The Associated Press.

The report says:

—Lack of a centralized leasing arrangment for office equipment costs taxpayers $218,000 per year because the House doesn't take advantage of discounts offered by suppliers of electric typewriters.

—The House keeps inventories of virtually all its property except venetian blinds, rugs and drapes, although there is "near zero" risk of theft because Capitol police guard every exit and entrance 24 hours a day. Most businesses inventory only high-value items.

—The Finance Office once fell 50 days behind in paying claims for official expenses because nobody made plans to handle a crush of new paperwork caused by a change in House rules.

—Nearly one-fourth of all expense claims submitted by congressmen's offices must be resubmitted because they are prepared incorrectly. The consultants blamed the diffiulty on a needlessly complicated financial system, a "bewildering number of forms, and little guidance offered (to) the people who must initiate the paperwork."

—Ten different voucher forms are in use, and should be reduced to one or two. As many as 15 per cent of all vouchers submitted are for amounts less than $10, causing "unnecessary paperwork" that could be reduced through use of petty cash funds.

"A consistent thread that the study team has observed is the burden which poor system performance can place on members' offices," the Westinghouse report said.

"A primary objective of the system should be to meet member needs with the input on their parts of as little time as possible. The job of members' offices should be legislation and not administration."

IRS agrees to car dealer case delay

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service has agreed to delay steps to collect additional taxes from car dealers pending the outcome of a federal tax court suit, the Missouri Automobile Dealers Association says.

Involved in the dispute is an attempt by the IRS to collect Social Security and income tax withholding payments from dealers on the value of demonstrator cars used by salesmen.

The IRS contends the use of the cars by salesmen is income paid to the salesmen by the dealers and therefore should be taxed.

But the dealers believe the demonstrator cars are a sales expense that aid in advertising the cars and familiarize the salesmen with the product.

Ralph J. Kalberloh, executive vice president of the dealers association, said that about one-sixth of the dealers in the state have been audited by the IRS.

The IRS claims on Social Security and withholding payments for 140 dealerships totaled about $2 million, Kalberloh said.

In an effort to test the IRS's authority to tax demonstrator cars, the National Automobile Dealers Association has filed a suit involving an Omaha dealer. The suit was filed in the U.S. Court of Claims.

Dengue-type illnesses reported

ATLANTA (AP) — Illnesses resembling dengue fever, which hasn't appeared in epidemic proportions in the United States since the 1940s, are being investigated in nine states and the District of Columbia, the national Center for Disease Control said today.

Previous suspect cases had been reported in Florida, Louisiana and New York.

The CDC said additional cases are being investigated in California, Georgia, Maine, Maryland, Virginia and Mississippi.

Blood samples from patients in these states are being studied at the CDC tropical diseases laboratories in San Juan, a spokesman said.

Dengue causes chills, headache, eye pain, severe muscle pains and is accompanied by a rash. It lasts for about a week but seldom causes death.

Airlines, passenger ships and travel agencies have been advised by the CDC to notify travelers to Jamaica, where the illness is widespread, that they should take precautions to avoid mosquito bites and that they should advise their physicians of any acute virus illness occurring within two weeks after leaving Jamaica.

Girls receives $100,000 in vaporizer suit

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A 9-year-old girl has received a $100,000 settlement in a suit filed in federal court after she was scalded by water which spilled from an electric vaporizer.

The $100,000 goes into a trust fund for Sarah Shaoul of Overland Park, Kan., a suburb of Kansas City. Judge William H. Becker approved another provision that the defendants pay $50,000 in legal fees and court costs.

They are Skaggs Drug Centers of St. Louis, Associated Chain Drug Stores, Inc., of New York and Northern Electric Co. of Chicago.

Sarah was 3 years old and the family lived in Kansas City at the time she was hurt. She had a cold and her mother put the vaporizer on a stand near her bed so its steam could clear congestion in her nose and throat and help her breathe.

Sarah fell out of bed in the night, the vaporizer tipped over and its hot water spilled on her.

The $6.65 million damage suit filed in her behalf said she was permanently disabled and disfigured by burns on her face, chest, back and arms. It contended the defendants did not provide adequate warning that the top of the vaporizer could come loose and spill the water.

Some were spared

One home, right, appears untouched, but others in this Santa Barbara, Calif, suburb scene are still smoldering after a night of fire, started by a young man whose kite grounded on high tension electric wires, swept the canyons and rustic areas of this coastal city.

Image of wife, children beating deaths linger on

PROSPECT, Conn. (AP) — Fred Beaudoin has a terrifying image fixed in his mind of a man beating his wife and seven children to death.

"I wake up once in a while," the big man cries openly. "I just can't sleep. I see these kids walking toward him with their arms open and he beating them."

Two weeks ago, while Beaudoin was working the midnight shift at a nearby aircraft factory, his wife, Cheryl, 29, their seven children and a young friend were found murdered in the Beaudoins' burned out home. The children ranged in age from 4 to 11. The medical examiner said they died of head injuries and smoke inhalation.

Beaudoin's foster brother, Lorne Acquin, 27, has been charged with the murders and with arson. He is in prison awaiting grand jury action on Sept. 7.

Beaudoin talked to a reporter Thursday in his mother's home for the first time since the tragedy. Wearing dungarees, he rocked silently in a chair, his brown eyes transfixed. Occasionally, he paced the room and sobbed.

Since the murders, Beaudoin has lost 15 pounds from his 185-pound frame.

He said he can never go back to the home where the children's toys are still in the yard and Cheryl's vegetable garden still grows. He has visited the graves a few times.

"I'm not doing much," he said. "I'm just hanging around the house. I started to leave and then I ended up turning around and coming back. I was going to go away just to be alone for a while but I'd rather be lonely with my friends."

The 33-year-old Beaudoin was asked if he thought he would be able to rebuild his life.

"I hadn't really thought about doing anything yet," he said. "It's just too soon. It's not so bad now, but that first week was terrible. We're getting back into shape, I guess, slowly."

His mother, Marion, said: "He is strong enough in his mind that he can do it, but it's going to take him a long time."

His days are preoccupied with thoughts of his wife and children.

"All I do is think about them," he said. "I just remember all the good things."

"I just can't imagine," he said in reference to a motive for the slayings.

"You had to know Cheryl to appreciate this fact. Nobody didn't like Cheryl. She was the type of person, she could walk into a room and you knew she just had to know everybody. She made everybody feel so at ease.

"I just can't imagine ..." he said, not finishing the sentence.

Bernie superintendent resigns school position

BERNIE -- Bernie School Supt. Elmer "Doc" Dunn called a special meeting of the Bernie School Board Monday night to offer his resignation as superintendent and to announce his acceptance of a position at Southeast Missouri State University as Director of the Educational Services and Records Center for Migratory Children of Missouri.

Dunn will replace Dr. Wayne McElroy who recently resigned to assume a new position as president of junior college in Kansas. Dunn said he had been considering the directorship for a month before making his decision.

In his new position, Dunn will be working with schools in Southeast Missouri in developing compensatory education programs for migrant children. He also will be involved in career development at the high school level, with programs aimed at developing alternative career opportunities for migrant children.

"This area (federally funded migrant programs) seems to be getting more (financial ) support than some other compensatory programs," Dunn said. He said the large influx of Spanish speaking people in the United States in recent years is partly to account for this.

When Supt. Dunn came to the Bernie School district in 1973-74 he implemented the first migrant program offered through the Bernie School district. That first year program was for pre-school migrant children and was conducted in the old junior high school building. The summer migrant program under Dunn was expanded to include migrant children through the third grade level and this summer was expanded further to include migrant children from the cooperating Malden and Campbell school districts.

Dunn, whose new duties in Cape Girardeau begin Sept. 1, will stay with the Bernie school district until his successor is hired. Bernie School board president George E. Pulliam said the board is accepting applications for the superintendent's position and is advertising the position through the State Department of Education and the Missouri School Board and Administrators Association. Dunn said he has set no definite date for moving his family to Cape Girardeau. "I'll stay as long as I'm needed for opening school. We're in the process now of writing teacher contracts."

The new position represents an advancement in the educational field for Dunn, who holds a Masters degree in education and a Specialist in Education degree with a major in administration from Arkansas State University at Jonesboro. The Education Services and Records Center for Migratory Children of Missouri is funded through Southeast Missouri State University and is affiliated with the University's College of Education.

Nobody in L.A. safe from water snitches

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The city's water hotline has been flooded with calls as neighbors snitch on neighbors, turning in everyone from their landlords to little old ladies.

Someone recently turned in an elderly woman, who pleaded that her sidewalk needed hosing to clean pigeon droppings. And neighbors a few weeks ago reported a woman who said she wouldn't water her garden at night because she might be mugged.

The pigeon lady was told to use "the old bristle broom and bucket of water method" to clean up the mess, said Jim Derry, head of the Department of Water and Power's water conservation program. The woman who feared muggers was told to have friends water her lawn.

The hotline may receive from 700 to 900 calls a day on alleged violations of an ordinance barring nonrecycling fountains, daytime garden waterings, sidewalk hosings and water served in restaurants unless requested.

The hotline, set up last year as part of the department's conservartion program, also gives water saving tips to people like horse owners who say their animals won't drink 10 per cent less water.

About 100 warnings are mailed daily to first-time violators since the ordinance took effect July 1, Derry said. Sixty per cent of the violators are in the west Los Angeles and San Fernando Valley areas, he said.

Catching water wasters is difficult, Derry said, because every call isn't immediately followed up by a water official who rushes to the scene. And unless meter readers or other water department workers are in an area, the violation could go on for weeks, Derry said.

"We don't drop everything to run out there," he said. "We try to enforce the ordinance to the best of our ability without costing too much." The conservation program and lost revenue from a mandatory 10 per cent city cutback have cost the department $8.8 million, he added.

Although the city has reduced its water use 20 per cent so far this month, second-time water wasters have been cited. Their punishment is a pep talk in their homes from water officials.

No third-time violators have yet been cited, but if they are, their water flow will be reduced from 15 to 20 gallons of water per minute to one gallon.

"It'll take them five minutes to fill their toilet tanks after flushing and 18 minutes to fill their tubs," Derry said. And, he said, it'll cost them $50 to drown their sorrows.

Saxbe garage sale has items from 5 continents

MECHANICSBURG, Ohio (AP) — Bill Saxbe, former state legislator, U.S. senator, attorney general, ambassador to India and world traveler, is having a garage sale.

He's cleaning out his house this week and selling thousands of items — like souvenir wooden nickels, hand-carved inlaid teak screens, a bouquet of peacock feathers — he and his wife collected on five continents.

The items, which will be sold Aug. 12 and 13, are scattered through Saxbe's rambling, two-story house and several outbuildings. Among them are a Russian brass samovar bought in North Africa, a Ghurka hat from Nepal, a World War I German helmet, a newly upholstered love seat and an old typewriter case crammed with fishing gear.

"We're selling this Bijar rug from Persia," said Saxbe, giving a running commentary on everything he touched. "I was going to ask a couple of hundred for it until an antique dealer offered us $1,500. There's a Sarook rug from Persia that's going, as well as rugs from Afghanistan, Pakistan and India."

So are a number of oil paintings, mostly flower arrangements and still lifes, done by his wife, Dolly.

She caressed a set of hand-carved teak screens inlaid with bone and brass. "They've got to go," she said with reluctance.

"We've been buying this stuff for years and decided we just had to do something with it," she said. "It takes up so much space."

"You can't enjoy it because it's in dead storage," Saxbe added.

Saxbe, 61, now practices law in this rural community 30 miles west of Columbus. He became attorney general in 1973 and in 1975 was named ambassador to India by President Ford. He returned to the United States last January with the change of administrations in Washington.

Now, he and his wife walk among the shoes and tools, chests and tables that marked a period of their past, fingering some items, blowing dust from others, debating whether to part with a memory.

He held up a brass spittoon: "I must have 8 or 10 of these. We've brought back stuff from all over the world.

"There must be a hundred hats here," he said, pointing to a wall of the garage where they hung on nails. "But I'm not selling them all, maybe 50, but not all."

"It's a traumatic experience," Mrs. Saxbe said of deciding what would go and what would stay. "Bill, here's that old maple youth bed."

"Let's keep it," Saxbe responded. "Here's that Mammy's bench. My great-great-granddaddy made that, about 1825 ...

"It's not for sale."

All-out war declared on pornography

ST. LOUIS (AP) — All-out war against pornography has been declared by the chief of city police detectives following an obscenity ruling in circuit court on material seized at a midcity warehouse.

"I'm serving fair warning to anyone selling pornography that we're going to use every legal method to put them out of business," warned police official John A. Doherty Wednesday.

"We're going to look for it any time it's for sale at any bookstore," said Doherty. "We're going to continually work on it and try to make some buys."

Doherty's warning to the operators of about 25 adult bookstores in the city came in the wake of a jury decision Tuesday which was believed to be the first in Missouri establishing community standards which define obscenity.

A haggard jury delivered its verdict on thousands of films, magazines and paraphernalia confiscated from the All Star News Agency following a search warrant issued by Judge Clyde S. Cahill Jr.

Included in the collection were about 2,000 films plus thousands of magazines. The case's prosecutor, Assistant Circuit Atty. Terrence O'Toole, predicted the verdict would put a serious damper on the distribution of similar material.

O'Toole said his office would also step up its attack on trade involving pornographic material, noting several chains are in operation for its distribution.

"I think the large-scale distributors are going to cross St. Louis off the list of marketable areas," predicted O'Toole.

About 100 warnings are mailed daily to first-time violators since the ordinance took effect July 1, Derry said. Sixty per cent of the violators are in the west Los Angeles and San Fernando Valley areas, he said.

Catching water wasters is difficult, Derry said, because every call isn't immediately followed up by a water official who rushes to the scene. And unless meter readers or other water department workers are in an area, the violation could go on for weeks, Derry said.

"We don't drop everything to run out there," he said. "We try to enforce the ordinance to the best of our ability without costing too much." The conservation program and lost revenue from a mandatory 10 per cent city cutback have cost the department $8.8 million, he added.

Although the city has reduced its water use 20 per cent so far this month, second-time water wasters have been cited. Their punishment is a pep talk in their homes from water officials.

No third-time violators have yet been cited, but if they are, their water flow will be reduced from 15 to 20 gallons of water per minute to one gallon.

"It'll take them five minutes to fill their toilet tanks after flushing and 18 minutes to fill their tubs," Derry said. And, he said, it'll cost them $50 to drown their sorrows.

Saxbe garage sale has items from 5 continents

MECHANICSBURG, Ohio (AP) — Bill Saxbe, former state legislator, U.S. senator, attorney general, ambassador to India and world traveler, is having a garage sale.

He's cleaning out his house this week and selling thousands of items — like souvenir wooden nickels, hand-carved inlaid teak screens, a bouquet of peacock feathers — he and his wife collected on five continents.

The items, which will be sold Aug. 12 and 13, are scattered through Saxbe's rambling, two-story house and several outbuildings. Among them are a Russian brass samovar bought in North Africa, a Ghurka hat from Nepal, a World War I German helmet, a newly upholstered love seat and an old typewriter case crammed with fishing gear.

"We're selling this Bijar rug from Persia," said Saxbe, giving a running commentary on everything he touched. "I was going to ask a couple of hundred for it until an antique dealer offered us $1,500. There's a Sarook rug from Persia that's going, as well as rugs from Afghanistan, Pakistan and India."

So are a number of oil paintings, mostly flower arrangements and still lifes, done by his wife, Dolly.

She caressed a set of hand-carved teak screens inlaid with bone and brass. "They've got to go," she said with reluctance.

"We've been buying this stuff for years and decided we just had to do something with it," she said. "It takes up so much space."

"You can't enjoy it because it's in dead storage," Saxbe added.

Saxbe, 61, now practices law in this rural community 30 miles west of Columbus. He became attorney general in 1973 and in 1975 was named ambassador to India by President Ford. He returned to the United States last January with the change of administrations in Washington.

Now, he and his wife walk among the shoes and tools, chests and tables that marked a period of their past, fingering some items, blowing dust from others, debating whether to part with a memory.

He held up a brass spittoon: "I must have 8 or 10 of these. We've brought back stuff from all over the world.

"There must be a hundred hats here," he said, pointing to a wall of the garage where they hung on nails. "But I'm not selling them all, maybe 50, but not all."

"It's a traumatic experience," Mrs. Saxbe said of deciding what would go and what would stay. "Bill, here's that old maple youth bed."

"Let's keep it," Saxbe responded. "Here's that Mammy's bench. My great-great-granddaddy made that, about 1825 ...

"It's not for sale."

FALLS KILL

CHICAGO (AP) — The major killer of senior citizens is falls, according to the National Safety Council.

The council says recent statistics show about 11,000 persons over 65 or older die each year as the result of falls. It says that even when a fall does not kill it often inflicts severe injury requiring long hospitalization and convalescence.

Skateboards go sophisticated

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — The United States is in a skateboard renaissance.

The fad that swept the nation in the 1960s and was dormant for several years is back, more popular than ever.

Gone are the homemade wooden boards with noisy roller skate wheels. And gone are the days that a pebble or a twig in the way could mean a broken arm or, at best, a skinned nose.

Today's skateboards are sleek, multicolored platforms with quiet urethane wheels that grip the riding surface and kick pebbles and other obstacles to the side. And they aren't made in basements and garages, but in huge factories.

Skateboard parks, with concrete "bowls" and "mountains" that challenge the talents and courage of even the best boardsmen are replacing roads and sidewalks as places for "heavy" riding.

At one time, the parks were found in Florida and on the West Coast. But now many states have facilities built for as much as $200,000 and offering slalom runs where daredevils can race neck to neck down a winding concrete course, much like snow skiers do.

The Vernon Valley Skateboard Park opened recently in New Jersey, 60 miles west of New York City. Bob Piercy, the national slalom and cross-country champ, performed at the park's recent opening.

Piercy, who sesigned the course, had no difficulty with the steep dips and sharp turns of the eight different "runs."

"I've designed a lot of parks and this is one of the best," he said. "We had some kids at the opening who couldn't even skate when they came. By the time they left, they were really getting down. It was just great."

"Skateboarding is getting more popular every day and it's definitely going to be an Olympic sport someday," the 22-year-old Piercy predicted. "There are so many things you can do on a board and it is so exciting to watch."

He was part of the "early fad" in the 1960s, he recalled, and pointed to breakthroughs in board design and urethane wheels as the prime catalysts for the rebirth.

"A lot of money was been put into research to come up with the boards they have today. Millions of dollars," he said. "The urethane wheels kick the pebbles out and grip the surface a lot better than the old steel wheels. If you hit a stone with the old steel wheels, it was all over."

He said today's boards are bigger, more attractive and easier to ride. "They give you confidence when you ride them, and once you have the confidence, you can really throw your weight and get it on."

Injuries are less frequent now because of the better boards and the equipment worn by riders, he said. "Most parks require helmets, elbow pads and knee pads."

Noted American author becomes sandwich buff

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

When he's not writing plays or novels, author Richard Nash likes to putter about his wife's kitchen experimenting with sandwiches.

"I am not really a gourmet," says Nash. "My whole attitude toward sandwiches was prompted by an interest in anything that could be done fast."

So he began slapping different food combinations between bread while working on such plays as "The Rainmaker" when he wanted to eat without losing time.

"Then, as my kids started growing up, I began to show off and try to convince them that you could make a complete meal out of a sandwich."

Nash became interested in using fruit in sandwiches during an 18-month stay in Hawaii where he worked on his current novel, "East Wind, Rain."

"Hawaiians don't go in for sandwich making themselves," he said, "but they are heavy on fruit and use it in so many of their meals that I got the idea of mixing it with meat or fish and putting it on a hollowed-out roll.

"My most complicated creation was the East Wind, Rain sandwich which one of the characters in my novel dreamed up. It contains about 15 ingredients, ranging from lamb and fish to fruit, all crammed into a roll. When you eat it, the over-all effect is heat since I also throw in a few chili peppers."

One rule of thumb Nash follows: A sandwich must be juicy to be good. In fact, it should be eaten with the help of a paper napkin, not a cloth one.

"Only a paper napkin can serve as the true judge of the success of a sandwich," he said. A one-paper-napkin sandwich, he added, is poor, two napkins are fair and on up the scale to five which Nash rates exceptional.

"My East Wind, Rain sandwich is so juicy that I advise eating it naked," he added.

For those who prefer less than 15 ingredients in their sandwich and would like to keep their clothes on while munching, Nash has a simpler version known as the Hawaiian Hotlock which blends whitefish and pineapple.

"Fruit is good with fish," he said. "The Chinese combine them all the time."

Here is the recipe:

1 cold fillet of flounder (or other whitefish)
1 large hard roll
Cup diced fresh or canned pineapple
Dash cayenne pepper
1 tablespoon curry powder
Salt to taste

Scoop dough out of roll and in the shell place flounder fillet. Add half-inch layer pineapple bits. Sprinkle with cayenne pepper and curry powder. Add salt to taste.
